

NAVAL STRENGTH DEBATE SHIFTED INTO COMMITTEE

Coolidge Opposition to Building Rivalry Is Defined Clearly

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — The scene of debate in the waning controversy over the relative strength of the American navy shifted to the house committee Wednesday where Secretary Wilbur is to be called for a hearing on the question as to whether or not the navy should be expanded or reduced.

While the bill of Representative Britain of Illinois, making Republican of the committee proposing an elevation on capital ships was the immediate question before the committee members evinced interest also in the general conclusions recently presented by the naval secretary behind the closed doors of the subcommittee on naval appropriations. The secretary then declared that an outlay of $110,000,000 annually for the next 20 years on new construction would be necessary to maintain the American navy at treaty ratio strength. Secretary Wilbur goes before the committee presumably thoroughly informed by recent conferences with President Coolidge of the executive's position in the present naval controversy which was clearly defined at the White House Tuesday as opposed to the principle of measuring American naval requirements by the programs of other nations.

A. A. L. DIRECTORS WILL COUNT VOTES

Board Will Hold Annual Meeting Saturday—Vote on Voeks' Reelection

Canvass of the votes for trustees and directors and election of a secretary will be the principal business transacted at the annual meeting of the board of directors of the A. A. L. Association for Lutherans at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the offices in Insurance-bldg.

All 13 of the directors many of whom live in distant cities, are planning to be present. The board will be in session all day, taking a recess at noon for a dinner at Conway hotel.

Ballots are arriving from all over the United States reporting the choice of each branch for national trustees and three directors. Those receiving the highest total from all branches will be declared elected. J. P. Schoettler, Appleton, is the trustee whose term expires. The directors for reelection are: C. F. Hohenstein, Batavia, Ill.; Robert A. Plog, Milwaukee, and A. H. Scheumann, Fort Wayne, Ind. Albert Voeks, secretary, is the only officer whose term expires this year and the board will vote on his reelection.

Members of the board are: C. D. Ziegler, Appleton, president; C. F. Hohenstein, Batavia, Ill., vice president; Albert Voeks, Appleton, secretary; William H. Zuehlke, Appleton, treasurer; Dr. G. C. Rorer, Appleton, medical director; Otto C. Rantner, Chicago, attorney; J. W. Grime Hilbert, J. P. Schoettler, Appleton, E. R. Schneider, Green Bay; Henry Hekner, Appleton; Albert Dahms, Minneapolis; Alex. O. Benz, Fond du Lac; William F. Keim, St. Paul; C. J. Schulz, Saginaw, Mich.; Robert A. Plog, Milwaukee; E. C. Toenschel, St. Louis, Mo.; A. H. Scheumann, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Henry Kahner, St. Paul, Minn.

NOTED VIOLINIST GETS DEATH THREAT ON STAGE

Paris—Just as he was about to step on the platform to begin a violin recital, Fritz Kreisler, the Austrian virtuoso, received a letter threatening him with death, according to a special dispatch from Vienna.

The letter purported to come from three discharged officials with starting families and said there would be an "accidental shooting" unless $70 was forthcoming.

It was first thought that the letter was merely an attempt to spoil the recital but the police are satisfied that threat was genuine. No arrests have yet been made.

Good Fellows Club

Is your name in this list of Good Fellows? If it isn't it's time you enroll. Your help is needed to give Appleton's poor some semblance of comfort this year. Unless you are a Good Fellow there will be a lot of unnecessary suffering in Appleton this year. There shouldn't be. Appleton people, as a rule, are prosperous enough to make sure that no one will want for the common, ordinary necessities of life. Good Fellows provide food, clothing and fuel for the poor. They won't have those things unless you help.

AUTOMATIC FIRE ALARM BRINGS QUICK RESPONSE

The automatic alarm system connecting the Pettibone-Peabody company connected with the Appleton fire department summoned the firemen to the annex of the department store Tuesday afternoon. So prompt was the action of the alarm that even the employees in the annex did not know of the fire. They were, in fact, certain there was no fire in the building. The firemen investigated and found there was a small fire in the boiler room in the annex where excessive heat had scorched the cloth on the asbestos covering of the boiler. The fire was extinguished by the store's sprinkler system.

Oshkosh Police Hold Man Who Took Money from Sacred Heart School Sisters

A thief who entered the Sacred Heart school sisters' home Saturday morning and stole $100 while the Sisters were at mass was apprehended in Oshkosh the following morning and has confessed to the theft.

Chief George T. Brum of the Appleton police force went to Oshkosh Tuesday morning and satisfied himself as to the identity of the man. He gave the name of Philipp Harkel ski. It is believed that he has committed a series of burglaries most of which were in parsonages and sisters' homes. He was caught, red-handed in the act of burglarizing the parsonage of St. Joseph's Polish Catholic church in Oshkosh Sunday morning after he had pilfered two sisters' homes.

It was Miss Martha Zielinski, the housekeeper, who detected the man. She had been at mass and feeling that something was wrong at the parsonage went home to investigate. She surprised Harkelski in the hall and grappled with him. The burglar immediately started to run, with the woman in pursuit and crying, "Burglar!" A passerby caught him and detained him until the police arrived. Harkelski admits he entered the Sacred Heart sisters' home Saturday morning between 7 and 8 o'clock while the sisters were in church. He gained entrance by means of skeleton key. He found about $100 in cash and also took an alarm clock. He locked the door after him as he left. When he crossed the Lake street bridge the noise of the alarm clock so disturbed him that he threw it into the Fox river.

The man is feigning insanity, it seems, and gibbers in German and Polish, maintaining he knows no English, although he spoke English with the housekeeper and had English notes in his memorandum book.

In the diary were such names as Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, Chicago, Pittsburg and other cities. The sisters' homes at St. Mary and St. Peter churches at Oshkosh were robbed of about $200. The Italian sisters of Marinette also were robbed of $75 recently, it is said.

When Chief Brum interviewed Harkelski at Oshkosh the man did not have the money which he took from the Sacred Heart Sisters' home. He said he had sent the money away but police are searching for a grip which he is believed to have hidden. They are sure he had a grip for he had on clean linen.

Chief Brum made another trip to Oshkosh Tuesday evening in connection with the case. From further investigation it appears that Harkelski had been making a circuit of convent parsonages and the lives all over the country and sending the money to Poland where it was being hoarded. A few thousand dollars collected in America would make a man quite comfortable in Poland.

He still pretended to be unable to speak English, but betrayed himself in showing a disposition to listen whenever English was spoken in his presence. The ruse was exposed by Chief Brum who says that the man spoke English to an Appleton station agent from whom he inquired about train connections for Madison and La Crosse. The man is accused of having robbed ecclesiastical buildings in Marinette and Oshkosh besides Appleton. He was apprehended in Oshkosh after the housekeeper in a Polish Catholic church parsonage had surprised him in the building and struggled with him.

Through an interpreter he related Tuesday evening that he had sent the money stolen in Appleton to a bank in Poland by registered letter. He had taken about $500 in cash in three days at the various places visited.

Lagrange Dagmar Godowsky, Ralph Bell, George Siegman and others have prominent roles in the strong supporting cast and all give exceptionally good accounts of themselves.

FAMOUS AUTHOR FIRM BELIEVER IN EARLY RISING

A firm believer in the theory that early morning hours, when one's mind is fresh are the best for work, Harold Bell Wright credited with being the most widely read author in the world is an exceptionally early riser and each morning may be found at his desk hard at work at seven o'clock. There he remains until noon. Then he lays aside his literary labor for the day and his afternoons are spent in other occupations of recreation.

During the making of the film version of Mr. Wright's latest and most popular novel, "The Mine With the Lion Door," the famous novelist spent every afternoon on location where nearly all the scenes in the picture were made in the mountains back of Oracle near Tucson, Arizona.

"The Mine With the Lion Door" is shown for the last time at the Elite theatre tonight. It has a splendid cast headed by a Pl. O'Malley, Dorothy Mackall and Mary Carr and Creighton Hale.

JAMES KIRKWOOD AND PAULINE GABON IN FLAPPER STORY WITH A STRANGE TWIST

"The Painted Flapper" at the New Bijou Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, unveils a story that will be found true to life in every small town or large city. The flappers exist everywhere only they are more pronounced in some places according to their environment. The "Painted Flapper" conveys to every one of these girls a message that will make them sit up and take notice.

The theme of the story is true to life and touches an old-fashioned sermon in a new way. The old-fashioned boy who cared more for his studies than dissipation and had his future at heart is neglected by the girl whom he had loved from childhood for the fickle carefree youth who is feigning insanity, it seems, and gibbers in German and Polish, maintaining he knows no English, although he spoke English with the housekeeper and had English notes in his memorandum book.

In the diary were such names as Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, Chicago, Pittsburg and other cities. The sisters' homes at St. Mary and St. Peter churches at Oshkosh were robbed of about $200. The Italian sisters of Marinette also were robbed of $75 recently, it is said.

STAGE AND SCREEN

A SAINTED DEVIL

We thought Rudolph Valentino had about reached the heights in screen entertainment when he chose Booth Tarkington's "Monte Cristo" as his comeback vehicle for this month after an absence of two years.

But "the sheik" has fairly outdone himself in "A Sainted Devil," his latest production which opened at the Appleton theatre Monday. It's a Joseph Henneberg production, an adaptation by Forest Halsey of the marvellous story, "Rope's End," by Rex Beach.

"A Sainted Devil" has to do with South America and South Americans—a picture of beautiful story of old Spanish customs against modern city life. It shows the virility of the Pampas against the sophisticated culture of Buenos Aires, the Paris of the Americas.

Valentino has a role that fits him to perfection. As a dashing young South American, fired by the pure Castilian blood of generations which courses through his veins, he makes a picture never to be forgotten.

If you are one of those who thought "Beaucaire" was just about the last word in lavish productions—gorgeous settings, superb portrayals, etc.—go see "A Sainted Devil" and be convinced that there's always something new under the sun. Here's the "great lover" in the kind of a role the public likes to see him in—first as a young planter of wealthy parents, then a regular holy-terror, brooding over the loss of his lovely wife who was abducted on their wedding day.

What a man! This is and how Valentino does play it!

A QUESTION OF HEALTH
Scientists connected with Johns Hopkins university, who made an expedition into Nicaragua last summer to study wild animal life, are going forward with research work, especially on monkey specimens which they brought back with them. The object of their trip was to compare the health of creatures, including human beings, living in the open with that of human beings living in the cities. They hoped that they might gather some information which might aid in preventing or checking disease.

They observed that Indians of pure stock could not stand the inroads of civilization, and these tribes and races were dying out from disease. Monkeys they found, have many ills, and apparently, were not so healthy in their wild life as human beings who live in shops, factories and offices.

How valuable the information and conclusions of these learned investigators may prove to be cannot even be conjectured. What they say will unquestionably be interesting. Offhand, their investigations seem to show that our good health is due to the advancement of medical science. Medicine is now on a preventive basis. A few years ago physicians fought disease. At present they are obviating it. There will, no doubt, be less illness than there used to be, or is, and the span of life will be lengthened. Better health will mean greater happiness.

Medical science has discovered new diseases, and we of this generation call on the doctor oftener than our forefathers did. Our forefathers, it is contended, were stronger and enjoyed better average health than we. Science has not invented diseases. It has progressed so far that it perceives symptoms and diseases which physicians knew nothing of ten, twenty, fifty years ago. This advancement is one of the means of preventing or overcoming ailments and improving health.

It probably cannot be proved that our forefathers did have better health, or were stronger, or had greater resistance and endurance. They accommodated themselves to their difficulties and environments, as we do, but they probably had no better health than we, as they had inferior medical attention and advice. This is one point that the investigations of the Johns Hopkins seem so far to have brought out. Living in the open does not necessarily guarantee good health nor does civilized living indicate bad health. Our living accommodations and our medical assistance and advice appear to signify that we are able to take care of our health satisfactorily.

SOCIAL REVOLUTION
Dr. W. A. Garfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha, says that America has infused more Christianity into society in the past 25 years than all the nations of the world did in nineteen centuries. We have put Christianity into real practice, he declares, and, "if we go on for three fourths of a century more, at the same or an accelerating rate, in less than one hundred years from now humanity" will rise from the "valley of despair and the swamp of misery, into the table land of prosperity, and still onward into the city of happiness on the plains of peace."
A social revolution is in progress, beyond a doubt, and has been going on for some fifty years. So far the revolution cannot be said to be Christian in the strictest sense. Its causes have been almost wholly economic. The one great Christian principle of the equality of men and the right of the individual to opinion and opportunity, has been the dominating influence in economic progress. From the standpoint it is right to conclude that the movement has been Christian. Recognition of woman is another result of this Christian principle.

In the past fifty years the mode of living has changed completely. Invention has been the greatest cause. It has reconstructed transportation, manufacture and all lines of business and activity, has increased and diffused wealth, and has multiplied the comforts of life. The average family of today has more ready money and more living conveniences than a prince's family did a half century ago. It has all facilities for happiness and is not subject to any system.

Our big problem now is not to adapt our Christianity to our business and luxurious mode of living, but to conform the latter to Christianity. Our next big problem is to act out in everyday affairs the same spirit of Christian charity which has promoted republicanism so successfully. The perfection of Christianity consists of true charity.

DR. JORDAN ON PEACE
As no one perhaps is so well informed as to the cost of war in wealth, life and happiness destroyed as the distinguished chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford university, Dr. David Starr Jordan, so no one is so competent to advise with authority on the maintenance of peace as he. To him has been awarded the Raphael Herman prize of $25,000 for the best educational plan for permanent peace.

He suggests a committee "to investigate the present teaching of history the world over, reporting also on the text books used, their virtues and delinquencies from the standpoint of international amity and stressing the need that history, whether elementary or advanced, should be just and true as far as it goes. Above all, history could not be perverted in the supposed interest of national 'honor' or partisanship.

Dr. Jordan takes a fling at fanatical and mercenary patriotism. He would have a committee "which shall attempt to define its (patriotism's) true nature, expressing its value, its limitations and its perversions.

National honor, racial pride, fervent patriotism, are played up by politicians, demagogues and conspirators of all kinds to further their own ends. The people are inflamed to defend or protest, as they think, their cherished ideals, and thus national hate is kept alive or fanned on opportunity with the consequence that the nation is emotionally prepared for war.

False teaching engenders suspicion, misunderstanding and prejudice. Bias is taught in some textbooks and histories. The demagogue and the imposter overlook no chance to misinform and alarm the people. Dr. Jordan is a deep thinker, a logical and impartial thinker. If a commission composed of such men as Dr. Jordan could be gotten up to study the text book question the results should be satisfactory and worth while.

WELCOME SOUND.
OFT, the humming of a kettle irritates the best of men, or the creaking of a door will set you wild. That's the case when nerves are ragged and you're nervous, now and then. You are quite a fitting subject to be riled.
Baby howls! It sets you crazy, though you fully realize that the youngster's bound to have his little weeps. Someone's singing and you're fretty till the last, sweet echo dies. Oh, your nerves are playing back in bounds and leaps.
Total quiet you're desiring. All alone you want to be. And you seek the spot where solitude is found. Of disturbance you are tiring; there's a longing to be free from the natural run of irritating sound.
Then there comes a muffled rumble; then a clatter all around. But there's reason why you're smiling through the din. No, it doesn't irritate you 'cause you're glad to hear the sound of a coal man rushing coal down in your bin.

THE THIRD GREAT PLAGUE.
The third great plague in history was bubonic (or pneumonic) plague—the disease which recently flared up in California. This disease may be truly referred to as the "great" disease, for it kills more out of 10 afflicted, and it has destroyed many millions of lives—in India alone it has taken a toll of half a million lives a year for 20 years past.
Cholera is another infectious disease which has earned the description of the pestilence, having devastated if not decimated the populations of many countries, but never our own.
Smallpox is a third pest which has marked, maintained or killed enormous numbers of people. Galen called it the great pest.
Typhus (also called spotted fever, ship fever, jail fever, camp fever) has been one of the great epidemics of the world.
Yellow fever epidemics of frightful proportions have prevailed in America in times past, notably in Philadelphia in 1793 and in Baltimore in 1802. In 1853 yellow fever raged throughout the southern states.
Typhoid fever has killed and maimed more than powder and shot in all wars up to the time of the great war, when this scourge was absolutely prevented by artificial immunization or all soldiers.
Some of these plagues have been geographically identified. Cholera, indeed, is generally called Asiatic cholera. The black plague was and is Eurasian. Smallpox and typhoid have always been cosmopolitan, but are no longer plagues, for every body who so desires may now procure immunity against both.

Yellow fever has been considered a tropical pestilence. The discovery of the agency of infection, the Stegomyia breed of mosquito, has enabled the physicians to stamp this pestilence out of Central America and the West Indies, and the conquest of yellow fever in South America is certain to be accomplished in the near future.
Now there are three more diseases which, though not usually considered pestilence or plagues, nevertheless devastate entire populations and whose three destroyers are about as prevalent today as ever. Perhaps this is because familiarity breeds neglect. Perhaps it is because they pursue their ruinous course quietly, slowly undermining instead of striking their victims down in the spectacular fashion of the plagues. These diseases are tuberculosis, cancer and syphilis.
The first of these homegrown plagues, tuberculosis, is the best known and most widely understood. The second, cancer, is today a mystery unsolved. The third, syphilis, causes 10 deaths to every one death caused by smallpox in this country, even according to the mortality statistics, which are probably far from accurate in respect to this disease. This third great plague, as Dr. John H. Stokes calls it in his book for lay readers, is shrouded in obscurity, entrenched behind a barrier of silence and armed with something far better than tear gas bombs, our own false shame.
We cannot discuss it freely here, but I shall be glad to mail to readers requesting it, the essential facts about the subject.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Buttermilk is Nourishing.
Kindly tell me if buttermilk is fattening. (D. O.)
Answer.—Buttermilk has about the same caloric or nutritive value as skim milk, which is just half that of fresh whole milk. It is nourishing and wholesome, though one would have to consume great quantities of buttermilk or of skim milk to grow fat on it. It is always difficult to give an unqualified yes or no answer to such a question, because it depends on the quantity of food item consumed, the amount of other food eaten at the same time, and your individual requirements.

Gives Dukedom As Booby Prize
(From The New York Evening World)
It is a new wrinkle in English history to give a dukedom as a booby prize, in the political game, but Premier Baldwin had to do something to satisfy Curzon after having denied him the foreign office and relegated him to the relic shelf. Nothing could have served the purpose better. Notwithstanding the really serious work that Curzon has done, the impression persists that high political station has merely meant to him a rung in the ladder of social eminence.
And what is more imposing socially than a dukedom? The man whose magnificence as the viceroy of India, the glory of the Victorian court, will wear his prospective honors proudly, and with that superciliousness which old-fashioned novelists ascribed to the role.
It will, nevertheless, shock some of the Conservatives to find that the first deemed worthy of the honor since Wellington is the statesman who receives it because of the premier's conviction that he is not able to handle the foreign office. What a blow to the spirit of Victoria—the who adorned her Daisy, and plucked flowers from the castle gardens for him, and sent lovely-dovey letters to his sickbed and yet could not bring herself to make him more than an earl!
But politics is politics, as pigs' pigs, and after all, dukes is only dukes.

Medical Book Lacked One Cure
(Forest Crissey, In The Saturday Evening Post.)
One native of the Notoch (Plymouth Vt.) has no doubt whatever as to the president's sense of humor, and tells this incident, presumed to have been related by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, in support of his contention: In the early days of their married life a smooth book agent sold Mrs. Coolidge a volume entitled The Family Physician, which was recommended as a compendium of remedies to deal effectively with every ailment.
When Mrs. Coolidge had, so to speak, come out from under the ether she found herself in the possession of their book and a sense of guilt at having parted, with $6 of family funds at a time of small and uncertain income. Then there was the further disturbing thought that she had done this without consulting her husband, thereby breaking a family precedent.
How to justify herself in her husband's eyes was a difficult problem. Finally she decided to adopt a Coolidge method and say nothing. She simply deposited the bulky volume on the center table and awaited results. When the young lawyer came home his eye was quick to catch the addition to the family store of knowledge. He promptly settled himself in the Boston rocker and gave himself up to a painstaking study of the book.
Later they went out together and he made no mention of his conclusions on the new medical accession. Several days passed and he did not speak of it—much to the relief of the young wife, who concluded that she had not made so great a mistake as she had feared.
But the day came when she opened the volume and on its flyleaf found this line printed: "I find here no cure for snickers."
It is said that no book agent has ever induced Mrs. Coolidge to sign on the dotted line since.

Q. On what day did the women who came over on the Mayflower first go ashore? G. S. L.
A. On November 24, 1620.
Q. In the early days was the title "Mrs." used by unmarried as well as by married women? R. E. A.
A. In colonial days the title was even given to little girls. "Mrs." did not imply that the person so-called was married. The archives of Maryland refer to "Mrs." Margaret Brent. It is probable that this Maryland heroine never married.
Q. Are frogs raised to furnish frog legs for the market? J. C. B.
A. They are raised commercially.
Q. Please give a list of Generals buried in Arlington Cemetery who have no monuments? G. W.
A. There is only one General buried in the Arlington Cemetery, Philip H. Sheridan. A monument was erected for him by his relatives.
Q. What minerals are found in Iowa? F. L. B.
A. Extensive bituminous coal beds are found in the south-central section of Iowa. Lead and zinc have been mined in considerable quantities in the north eastern part of the State and gypsum and cement materials are also found in the state.
Q. Are Georgetown and George Washington both Catholic Universities? C. E. Q.
A. Georgetown University is a Catholic institution, while George Washington University is non-sectarian.
Q. How much more sunlight does a south window get than a north window? H. M. S.
A. Experiments conducted by Prof.

S. What are the four fastest passenger ships? C. T.
A. The following are the four fastest passenger ships afloat; Mauretania, 26.06 knots per hour; Maestral, 24.76 knots per hour; Leviathan, 24.17 knots per hour; Aquitania, 23.51 knots per hour.
Q. What gave rise to the expression "carrying coals to Newcastle"? D. L. F.
A. Newcastle, England is in the heart of the coal district. To take coal to this city is to introduce a commodity which is superfluous.
Q. How many men have caught bald eagles from the Washington Monument? T. J. J.
A. Three men have done so. On August 23, 1894, William (Pop) Schriever, star catcher of the Chicago Baseball Club, performed this feat which had never before been accomplished. Charles Street made this catch in 1908, while Sullivan made his catch on August 24, 1910.
Q. How many broadcasting stations are there in the United States. How many in the world? W. M. B.
A. On June 30, 1924, there were 535 broadcasting stations in the United States; The Department of Commerce says information concerning the service in other countries is incomplete. Countries reporting stations are: Canada, 44; Cuba, 34; England, 9; France, 5; Mexico, 4; Brazil, 4; Argentina, 3.
Q. How far up the Thames do the London docks extend? J. L.
A. The London docks now embrace 35 miles of the river from the Tower Bridge to Tilbury Dock.
Q. How does the population to the square mile in Illinois compare with the average for the United States? E. C.
A. The population of the United States per square mile in 1920 was 35.5; of the State of Illinois, 115.7.
Q. We have heard that dahlia bulbs are used to eat? If so, how should they be cooked? L. C.
A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that dahlia tubers are edible in the sense that they are not poisonous, but as their contents are invulnerable to starch, they cook up into a sort of mullage and so would hardly be of value for eating purposes.
Q. What was a "double monastery" and were there any in Ireland? W. W. D.
A. G. C. Alison says that double monasteries were religious houses comprising of both men and women, dwelling in contiguous establishments, united under the rule of one superior and using one church in common for their liturgical offices. Ireland presents only one known example—Kilgarney.
Q. At what rate are divorces on the increase? D. T.
A. The divorce rate was 231 per 100,000 married population in 1906; 231 in 1916; 230 in 1922, and 263 in 1923.
Q. According to the Census, what is meant by a "family"? C. W. M.
A. It refers to the number of persons living in the same house and sharing the same table.

Form Chorus For Festival Next Easter

Haydn's "Creation" Will Be Presented—First Rehearsal Scheduled Jan. 5

Another great community Easter musical festival is being planned in 1925 according to announcement of Dean Carl J. Waterman of Lawrence Conservatory of Music. A program will be presented at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Easter Sunday, April 12, and on the Monday following. The outstanding portion will be Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation."

It is Mr. Waterman's plan to have a huge community chorus, perhaps larger than that of the festival last spring. The Schola Cantorum of the college already has been enrolled and choirs of the Appleton Protestant churches will be invited to participate.

Rehearsals will begin on Monday evening, Jan. 5, so that ample time may be provided to train the chorus. All Appleton singers who would like to take part are invited to be present at that time.

Dancing Classes Finish Work At Club Cotillion

A cotillion will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Playhouse at which the social dancing class and the social dancing hour group of Appleton Women's club will finish the fall term's work. Each guest is asked to bring five small favors. Miss Doris Ewell, physical instructor, is in charge of this party.

"Why the Chimes Rang," the children's play which is under the direction of Miss Martha Chandler and Miss Ewell, will be presented at 8 o'clock Friday evening in Columbia hall. The Shamrock group of girl scouts are putting on the play.

Two Christmas Parties Close Seasons Work

The two Christmas parties which end the work of the gymnasium and dramatic departments of Appleton Women's club were held Tuesday evening in the clubrooms and in the Playhouse. The gymnasium classes celebrated with a joint supper party after which they went to the high school gymnasium for the last gym class of the year. Miss Doris Ewell, physical training instructor, was in charge.

Nearly every character which had been portrayed in Appleton Women's club plays were represented at the dramatic department party in the Playhouse. Each member was dressed as a character she had represented in the near future, and snatches from many of the plays were enacted. Miss Martha Chandler is director of dramatics.

PARTIES

Miss Emma Dettmann entertained members of the J. C. club at a Christmas party at her home at 399 Pacific street Monday evening. Games and music were the diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by the Misses Martha and Ida Tilly and Mrs. Mabel Meltz. Gifts were exchanged by the members. This social gathering will be a New Year party Dec. 29 at the home of Miss Martha Tilly, 551 Foster st.

De Molay Votes On Big Class As Special Meeting

Special permission has been granted the John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay to hold a regular business meeting Thursday evening which is a special meeting night by W. D. Isham of Milwaukee, state deputy. The meeting will be held at 7:15 in Masonic temple. The chapter requested the special permit because of the large amount of business to be transacted before Jan. 1. Regular business will occupy the evening.

Ward Wheeler and Harry Snyder will receive the initiatory degree and the largest class of candidates ever brought up since the institution of the chapter will be voted on. Plans are being made to initiate the banner group of the chapter's existence as a fitting opening for 1925. This will take place at the first meeting in January. Preparations are being made for a sleighride dancing party for New Year's eve. Letters have been sent to every chapter in the state which has not yet voted for a meeting place for the 1925 state DeMolay conference and its new Masonic temple. The latest reports show Madison leading Appleton by 5 votes and a strong effort is being made to overcome this lead by Dec. 25. Prospects are favorable for the next conference being held here as six chapters of the valley have not yet cast their votes.

BUILD COFFERDAM AROUND PIERS OF KAUKAUNA BRIDGE

Small Crew Starts Construction of $140,000 Projects

Kaukauna—Construction on Kaukauna's $140,000 bridge is getting off to such a slow start that it is probable few people realize the work is under way. A crew of four or five men began this week to build a small cofferdam at the base of the transportation canal a few feet from the remains of what was once the foundation of one of this city's mills.

The work is supervised by Harry Klyce, who represents both this city and the architect. Mr. Klyce is ready on duty. It is expected that within the next week the work will be carried out on a much larger scale.

APPLETON MOOSE
EXEMPLIFY DEGREE

Kaukauna—Candidates were initiated at the regular meeting of the Local Order of Moose Monday evening in Odd Fellow hall. The work was exemplified by the Appleton degree team. About 80 members were present. The card "sharks" of the order were started to meet players representing the Women of Moosehead Legion in the final outch of a three game schafkopf contest. The men challenged the ladies and have thus far defended themselves by winning the first match game by 8 points and the second by 50 points. If the ladies can score a majority of more than 50 points at the next meeting they will win the contest and will be guests of honor at a banquet to be served by the men. The final contest will be Monday, Jan. 5.

WOMANS' CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

Kaukauna—About 50 ladies attended the annual Christmas party of Kaukauna Women's club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Martens, 124 E. Third st. Roll call was answered by each member with a Yuletide quotation. A farce "parliamentary drill," put on by about half of those present, was the feature of the entertainment. Miss Genevieve Donohue read "The Christmas Dinner" by Dickens. Christmas music was played on a phonograph. Hostesses were Mesdames W. R. Harwood, B. G. Prugh, W. F. Ashe, Edward Haas, H. L. Donohue, G. S. Mulbolland, George Smith, E. B. McPherson, James O'Connell, John Cleland and Stanley Peguhn.

CITY FOREMEN WILL HOLD
SAFETY SMOKER THURSDAY

Kaukauna—A foreman's safety smoker and meeting will be held Thursday evening in Elk hall. The meeting will be conducted under the auspices of the Employers' Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Wausau. Al Kroes, representative of the company, will give a talk on "The Foreman's Part in Shop Safety." It is expected about 75 foremen, taking in most of the large industries of Kaukauna and a large number of local business houses, will be present. The meeting is to begin at 7:35.

COUNCIL AUTHORIZES
BRIDGE BOND ISSUES

Kaukauna—At an adjourned meeting in the council chambers Tuesday evening the council passed two resolutions each authorizing a negotiable coupon bond issue of $50,000 for the construction of a bridge and draw bridge across the Fox river. Bonds will be issued in $1,000 denominations. The first four bonds will mature Nov. 1, 1925 and thereafter four bonds will mature each year until Nov. 1, 1937.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Engeldrum of Chicago, were weekend visitors with relatives in this city.

SURPRISE PARTY

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knyers entertained at a surprise birthday party at their home Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. William Nyles. About 25 neighbors were present. Cards were played and lunch hours were captured by Mrs. William Nyles and Victor Thivon. A consolation award went to Mrs. Thivon and Mr. Nyles.

The custom of perambulating the borough lanes by the children of the town, which was recently revived, and he had to use a ladder to climb walls now built over the boundary lines.

COUNCIL IS ASKED TO CONDEMN LAND
FOR OSHKOSH-ST

Property Owners Want Remainder of Street Opened—Refuse to Buy Crusher

New London—A petition to open Oshkosh-st where sewer-laying has been delayed until spring, was made to the city council Tuesday night at its semi-monthly meeting. The petition was signed by about 20 property holders along Oshkosh-st. In order to open the street, condemnation proceedings against the Albert Klatt property will have to be completed, and this petition will cause their completion.

Grant Stinson came before the council and petitioned that he be permitted to delay the paying of his extra tax, caused by paying of the cemetery road, which runs past his store, until a slightly later date. The road was closed during so much of the summer that he had to close his business. His petition was granted.

INCREASE TREASURER'S BOND

The city is to have an extra bond on the city treasurer during the 90 day period from Jan. 1, 1925 to April 31, 1925, as city taxes are paid during this time, and the treasurer has quite a large sum of money on hand. The bond which will be taken out in some bonding company, will probably be made for $40,000, and will be in effect only during this 90-day period. One was submitted to the council Tuesday night, but was of the wrong nature, covering only one part of the city, that which lies in Waupaca-co. A new one will be applied for to cover and pertain to the whole city.

A letter was read to the council concerning the buying of a stone and gravel crusher. The letter was received from an outside concern which stated that it had a gravel crusher such as the city would need. Its cost was $5,100 new, and would be sold to the city at $2,500 cash. The apparatus had been purchased in 1921 and was used in that year for laying three miles of concrete road, and had been idle ever since.

DON'T WANT CRUSHER

A suitable crusher could be purchased new by the city for $4500, it was said. However, the budget has already been planned, and since there were no funds to pay for a stone crusher the proposition was turned down upon the suggestion of Mayor Wendlandt.

The rebate which property holders on Oshkosh-st will receive, due to lack of completion of the sewer project, cannot be used for anything else except as payment for the sewer upon its completion next spring, the council decided. One of the property holders demanded his share to help pay his current taxes. This will not be allowed. The rebate will be made in the form of a credit slip to property holders.

The council voted to send Albert Gesso, street superintendent, to Chicago in January, 1925, to the road show. This is an exposition where the latest machinery for road and street work are displayed, along with the new ideas on this kind of work. As Mr. Gesso has gone before to this show, it was thought he should go again this year.

DEMURE ICELAND
GIRLS STYLISH

By Associated Press

Reykjavik, Iceland—The girls of Iceland may be separated from the rest of the world by hundreds of miles of America, but fashions penetrate here almost as rapidly as those of the outside world. When Paris or London decrees a new style, whether in hairdressing, gowns or the handling of a feminine cigarette, it is sure to be adopted in Reykjavik before many weeks have passed. The old national costume, unaltered for hundreds of years, is still worn about in the cities the girl who desires most exclusively in the rural districts, to social standing keeps abreast of the times, and sometimes even a bit ahead of them.

American sailors who visited Iceland in connection with the condensation of the ship, were more than surprised when they found that the hair and other feminine fancies usually associated with Paris, London and New York. There was the customary display of silken lace, "bikini" gowns, unmarked valises and wrap-around skirts, with a faint aroma of black perfume or other Parisian perfume floating about the dainty persons of the women.

One difference the American sailors found, and it caused them to grin, sometimes rather wistfully. The Icelandic girls did not flirt.

The great blue Iceland flower, found in an area east of the Mýr, and used by the American Indians in the treatment of diseases.

DROP MAIL CAR OFF
TWO G. B. W. TRAINS

Large Number of Towns Will Be Left with Only Two Mails Daily

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Reports circulated from time to time that the mail service on the Green Bay and Western railroad was to be curtailed will become an assured fact Jan. 1. The mail car will be removed from train No. 4 from the west, due at 7:34, and train No. 3 from the east, due at 8:15 in the afternoon.

This will mean that towns such as Shiocton, Manawa, Royalton and all towns located between New London and Amherst Junction will receive but two mails a day. This is expected to be a handicap on these towns and a great deal of remonstrance is expected.

NEENAH COUNCIL WANTS ACTION ON BRIDGE REQUEST

Twin Cities and County May Ask Legislature for Help to Build Bridges

Neenah—Neenah city council will meet Thursday evening for its semi-monthly session. Several important matters will come before this meeting. Thirty days have passed since the highway commission at Madison has been asked for a hearing on the Commercial-st bridge project and no answer has been received. It is understood that if the commission does not act on the petition, Winnebago county and the cities of Neenah and Appleton will jointly ask that a bill be presented to the next meeting of the legislature asking for an appropriation providing for a new bridge over the Fox river in the former city and for a new swing bridge over the canal on Tayco-st in Menasha. Both structures are of ancient construction and have been reported unsafe by state engineers. Neenah made an effort to secure an appropriation last year but the request was ignored. This will be one of the more important matters to be discussed at the meeting of the council.

PROVIDE GYM CLASSES FOR YOUNGER PUPILS

Neenah—Beginning next Saturday gymnasium of Roosevelt high school will be open for pupils of grade schools. Heretofore younger boys and girls were not given this privilege owing to the fact that there was no one to instruct them in athletics. As the gymnasiums are in use by up to class teams during the week, Saturdays will be the only days available. It is understood that regular classes will be started and a course of training given to the younger pupils.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS AND BOOSTERS MEET ON ALLEYS

Menasha—The Cherry Blossoms of Appleton and the Boosters of Menasha will bowl a match game on Menasha-alley at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The teams are evenly matched.

ON PROM COMMITTEE

Neenah—William Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Golden, Chas. is a member of one of the junior prom committees of the state university. Mr. Golden is on the committee on transportation.

COUNCIL HOLDS FINAL MEETING OF THIS YEAR

The last council meeting of this year will take place at 7:30 Wednesday evening in the city hall. After the close of the year the annual reports of the various officers will be forthcoming, and the annual audit will be made of the city clerk's and treasurer's accounts. With the collection of taxes to start soon, the council will usually be flooded with petitions for rebates of taxes. The committee on tax rebates will consist of those aldermen who did not serve on the tax equalization board. This arrangement was made by Mayor John Goodland so that one committee would be a check upon the other.

Any time is the logical time, but the right time to buy a Fur Coat, Jacket or Scarf is when you can see a large assortment and save some money on your purchase. That's what you can do now at Dawson's Sample Fur Sale. This sale positively closes tomorrow night.

YOUNG LADIES SODALITY ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Menasha—Miss Dorothy Sully was elected president of the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Mary church at the monthly meeting Tuesday at St. Mary school hall. Other officers elected are: Secretary, Aurelia Bach, treasurer, Violet Dene; conductors, Veronica Volksen, Lucille Paulkutz. A new auditing committee was appointed composed of Emma Liebhauer, Helen Volksen and Frances Munter. It was decided to hold a social following the next meeting. A committee to take charge of it consists of Frances Munter, Helen Volksen, Corlette Hohl, Cecile Tushscherer and Marcella Jakowski.

MENASHA AGAIN WILL HAVE COMMUNITY TREE

Menasha—Doubt about the city having a community Christmas tree on the public triangle was set at rest Wednesday when a handsome tree from the northern part of the state was delivered here. The tree is 24 feet in length and has a spread of 13 feet. It will be erected close to the flag-staff and will be appropriately decorated within the next few days.

NEENAH WINS STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

Animal Husbandry Class Selected to Represent District in Madison

Neenah—Prof. Lewis Tressall and five members of the animal husbandry class of the high school went to Green Bay and won honors at the district stock judging contest for pupils of this district Tuesday afternoon. Neenah was represented by Evan Jones, Henry Malchow and Stanley Pearson, with Irwin Gibson as an alternate. Five teams were entered. The Neenah team will go to Madison in February or March to represent this district in a state contest of stock judging. Neenah won 672.65 points; the next highest was Marinette with 630.3; Sevastopol, 586.55; Shoocton, 540.64; Algoma, 495.73.

MERCHANTS VIOLATE STATE FOOD LAWS

Neenah—Isaac Deutch and Julius Perloff, fruit merchants of Neenah, paid a fine of $10 and costs each for displaying cookies in uncovered pails. Both merchants appeared in municipal court, Oshkosh, Tuesday afternoon and pleaded guilty to a charge of having several boxes and pails containing cookies which were allowed to stand without proper glass, metal or other covering. The charges were preferred by J. M. Killeher, state inspector. Because of them claiming they had ordered the proper covers but which had not arrived before they were accused, the judge imposed the minimum fine upon them. A charge against Perloff of selling eggs which had been in storage over forty days was dismissed on motion.

WALTON LEAGUE WILL DISCUSS LAW CHANCES

Neenah—Isaac Walton league will meet Wednesday evening in the auditorium of Neenah city hall. This meeting has been called to check up on new members and to report on several matters of importance to hunters and fishermen in this vicinity. State laws which might be changed will be discussed.

NEENAH WINS STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

Animal Husbandry Class Selected to Represent District in Madison

Neenah—Prof. Lewis Tressall and five members of the animal husbandry class of the high school went to Green Bay and won honors at the district stock judging contest for pupils of this district Tuesday afternoon. Neenah was represented by Evan Jones, Henry Malchow and Stanley Pearson, with Irwin Gibson as an alternate. Five teams were entered. The Neenah team will go to Madison in February or March to represent this district in a state contest of stock judging. Neenah won 672.65 points; the next highest was Marinette with 630.3; Sevastopol, 586.55; Shoocton, 540.64; Algoma, 495.73.

MERCHANTS VIOLATE STATE FOOD LAWS

Neenah—Isaac Deutch and Julius Perloff, fruit merchants of Neenah, paid a fine of $10 and costs each for displaying cookies in uncovered pails. Both merchants appeared in municipal court, Oshkosh, Tuesday afternoon and pleaded guilty to a charge of having several boxes and pails containing cookies which were allowed to stand without proper glass, metal or other covering. The charges were preferred by J. M. Killeher, state inspector. Because of them claiming they had ordered the proper covers but which had not arrived before they were accused, the judge imposed the minimum fine upon them. A charge against Perloff of selling eggs which had been in storage over forty days was dismissed on motion.

WALTON LEAGUE WILL DISCUSS LAW CHANCES

Neenah—Isaac Walton league will meet Wednesday evening in the auditorium of Neenah city hall. This meeting has been called to check up on new members and to report on several matters of importance to hunters and fishermen in this vicinity. State laws which might be changed will be discussed.

ESCAPED CONVICT IS IDENTIFIED AS MARION ROBBER

W. J. Wilson Is Captured at St. Paul and Returned to Waupun—Loot Is Found

Capture in St. Paul of W. J. Wilson, alias Ed Kelly of Antioch, an escaped convict, resulted Tuesday in the recovery of practically the entire loot of $3,000 worth of merchandise stolen from the Charles Bowers general store at Marion early last week. About $200 worth of the goods still is missing.

Wilson was taken into custody at St. Paul by Sheriff Hans Swenson and Deputy William Toepke of Waupun and the trio arrived here Tuesday morning. They also brought back the loot, which filled a sedan which Mr. Bowers had at the depot to convey the goods back to his store. The robber was turned over to a deputy from the state prison at Waupun, where he will serve the eight remaining years of his sentence. He was heavily handcuffed and chained. Capture of Wilson was the result of six weeks of investigation by St. Paul police of store robberies, and Wilson was accused of being the leader of a gang. He had shipped the Marion goods into St. Paul in small quantities and was arrested when he attempted to sell them. He represented himself as a salesman offering goods at cut rates. Mr. Bowers identified goods in express packages sent from Elcho, Rhinelander and Menomonie.

Wilson was in the state hospital for criminal insane at Waupun serving a long sentence, presumably for robbery, and escaped. He was recaptured while being taken to the prison, learned from a train window and regained his liberty. He had not been seen again up to the time of his arrest.

PASHA'S BLOOD IS TOO VALUABLE TO BE SOLD

Alexandria—The coat of an Egyptian policeman, stained with the blood of Zakiul Pasha, former prime minister, is too valuable to be sold, in the opinion of the officer. The latter's coat became smeared recently when an attempt was made on the former premier's life and the officer rushed to his assistance.

At the hospital the bluecoat was offered $500 for the stained garment, but he declared the leader's blood was too valuable to be sold. He said he intended to present the coat to the house of the nation.

Judge Seeking Homes For Two Deserted Babes

Many a tragedy is brought to light in the mothers' pension and juvenile court matters handled by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in county court, but one of the most pathetic of all is the case of three tiny waifs who have been thrust upon him for protection. The circumstances which brought about the destitution of these poor creatures are quite similar in each instance. It is the same old story about the disgraced mother who, when abandoned by a wretch, found herself unable to care for her offspring.

By a piece of good fortune the judge was able to find a home for one of the babies—none of them is more than a month old—but the other two are still in the custody of the sheriff, or rather the sheriff's wife, Mrs. Otto H. Zucke, who is giving them motherly care. They are both boys. One of them is black, but the other is white. The judge was unable to place them in an orphan asylum for the reason that these institutions are quite filled. The dangers of small pox also caused him to hesitate about making any further efforts along these lines.

The judge wants only responsible parties, he says, and the best of credentials will have to be submitted, also a deposit, as an evidence of good faith. He doesn't know the names of the orphans, for he was not acquainted with their father. An orphan mother who may now be weeping pitifully for her lost babes.

Wilson was taken into custody at St. Paul by Sheriff Hans Swenson and Deputy William Toepke of Waupun and the trio arrived here Tuesday morning. They also brought back the loot, which filled a sedan which Mr. Bowers had at the depot to convey the goods back to his store. BARNABAS COMING TO BOOST SCOUTING

Leader of Boy's Work Will Promote Training Course on Visit Jan. 14

Brother Barnabas, P. S. C., will be in Appleton Wednesday, Jan. 14, to begin promotion of the boy scout leaders' training course scheduled for February, according to word received by P. O. Kelscher, executive of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America.

Brother Barnabas is executive secretary of the Boys' Life bureau of the Knights of Columbus and makes his headquarters at Notre Dame university. He offered to come here to assist with the arrangements. Inasmuch as the valley council has availed itself of the free instruction service offered by the Knights of Columbus, in addition to assistance from national scout headquarters.

A meeting will be arranged here at which Brother Barnabas will explain what scout leaders' training courses are, their value to the movement and the reasons why full support of the men of the community should be given. Mr. Kelscher will endeavor to have present representatives of Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Knights of Columbus, pastors of churches and others from Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna.

TAX WARRANT FOR 1925 IS $100,000 HIGHER THAN 1924

Junior High Schools Responsible for Increase of $60,000

The city tax warrant as certified by E. L. Williams, city clerk, to F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, for collection is about $100,000 larger than last year. This is due mainly to an increase of about $25,000 in the normal income tax, and the $60,000 tax levy for junior high schools. The general fund tax levy also is about $15,000 higher than that of the preceding year. The total this year is $1,243,081.91 as against $1,141,456.46 last year.

The tax warrant includes the following items: State tax, $43,924, as compared with $34,294.82 of last year; state special charge, $3,376, as against $150,663.62, as against $154,406.65 in 1923; illegal taxes, $44.52, as against $28.42; county schools, $22,597.50, as against $21,740.40; street improvement certificates, $10,181.35 in 1924, and $10,553.26 in 1923; library, $13,600, the same as last year; high school, $105,000, the same as last year; vocational school, $44,800.04, as against $41,542.41; junior high schools, $60,000; school district No. 1, $22,077.55, as against $21,103.91; district No. 2, $48,228.23, as against $48,105.22; district No. 3, $30,739.40, as against $39,639.79; district No. 4, $22,000, as against $21,102.65; Appleton waterworks delinquent accounts, $2,202.46 in 1924 and $1,618.18 in 1923; income tax, $176,447 in 1924 and $151,075.60 in 1923; surtax, $25,252.23 in 1924, and $33,423.38 in 1923; general fund levy $401,955.63 in 1924 and $388,053.02 in 1923; special taxes, $51,105.44 in 1924 and $43,774.39 in 1923; 5 per cent collection fee for water delinquent accounts, $6.57, as against $1.52.

NO DEARTH OF LABOR IN NORTHERN LUMBER CAMPS

Lumbering has started in the woods of northern Wisconsin and Michigan, according to local lumber dealers. The camps are much more numerous this year than for many years and there is an abundance of labor. Men are streaming into the camps daily in search of work. Wages average $45 a month, some of the camps paying $40 and others as high as $50.

WICHMAN CASE TRIAL IS POSTPONED TO DEC. 22

Trial of another case in municipal court again prevented the hearing of the charges against Herman Wichman and his wife Agnes Wichman for operating a house of ill fame on Second-ave. The case was scheduled for Monday afternoon, but was postponed until Dec. 22.

FARMERS SETTLE DISPUTE AFTER COURT HEARING

Tenant Agrees to Leave Farm on Payment of $500, Horses and Garden Products

The double injunction suit of Ernest Mischler vs. George J. McElroy, being a dispute between tenant and landlord over the management of the defendant's farm in Hortonla, ended in settlement in municipal court at 5:30 Monday afternoon.

McElroy who sought to have the tenant removed and the contract revoked proposed to allow Mischler $400, plus a team of horses, and all the canned preserves and garden products raised by Mrs. Mischler. A settlement was finally accepted but with the cash consideration of $500. The Mischlers are to vacate the farm within one week. In the meantime they will have the benefit of the milk and other products of the farm.

The plaintiff in his testimony complained that the owner was constantly harassing the tenants. One night he said, McElroy visited the farm while armed. Marshall Dunn of Hortonville was called to take the gun away from him. The gun, according to McElroy, had been left in his automobile. It was exhibited in court. The defendant gave as the reason for the nightly visit that he wanted to look over the granary, barns and

MENTOR ANALYSES HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Karl A. Windeshelm, debate coach at Appleton high school, will go to New London Wednesday night where he will give an analysis of a non-decision debate between New London and Shawano high schools. The question is. Desolved, That capital punishment should be abolished. Mr. Windeshelm will present his analysis, rendering no decision, directly after the debate. This is a new procedure and has never been tried in this vicinity.

The debate squad of Appleton high school is divided into teams and held a trial debate Tuesday night. The four teams, two negatives and two affirmatives, worked up their own analysis and presented simple cases. Mr. Windeshelm plans to have a series of trial debates.

The local debate squad is preparing for debates with valley schools on the question: "Resolved, that the provisions of the Johnson bill excluding Japanese should be repealed."

other buildings to see how matters were being managed.

McElroy denied that he was the complainant in the affair that led to moonshine raid on the Mischler farm. No liquor or moonshine making apparatus was found on the farm. He accused the tenant of not properly feeding the animals on the farm, but admitted that he himself bought the feed and that it was of a cheap grade.

LAY OUT PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY FORUM

Ministers and Laymen Cooperate in Series of Sunday Afternoon Meetings

A program of Sunday afternoon meetings to discuss problems of national and international importance was arranged at a meeting of the world service and religious work committees of the Y. M. C. A. with ministers and representatives of local churches Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. A supper at 6:15 preceded the meeting. The meetings will be held every Sunday afternoon after Jan. 1.

Prof. F. M. Ingler of Lawrence college presented an outline of 12 topics to be used. After a general discussion it was decided to hold these forums in the Y. M. C. A., or in other public buildings if more room was needed or if the group preferred another place. R. H. Hannum is chairman of the world service committee which will have charge of the forums.

The first meeting of the forum will be held on Jan. 11 when Prof. Ingler will present the subject: Will the Dawes Plan Solve the Problem of Reparations. An informal discussion will follow each talk. Other subjects to be used are: What Share should the United States have in the Reconstruction of Europe? Are We Wrong on the Japanese Issue? Should the United States Seek to Maintain Its Policy of Isolation? What Shall We Do with the Spirit of Nationalism? When Shall the United States Recon-

SNOW IS THREE FEET DEEP IN NORTH WOODS

Appleton men who returned from business trips to the northern part of the state Monday and Tuesday reported that the snow is from two to three feet deep. Around Three Lakes it is about two feet deep and it gets deeper the farther north the traveler goes, according to representatives of the Jentz Cedar and Lumber Co. who returned Monday from a trip to the lumber camps.

ICE RINKS UNDER PARK BOARD NOW

The street department is ready to commence work on the city ice rinks as soon as the weather permits. Several rinks have already had their first flooding, but the weather has not been cold enough to help the work. All rinks have been scraped and put into condition for flooding. Now that the parks are under the jurisdiction of the park board, the street department no longer furnishes labor for the ice rink in Jones park, but it will continue to maintain the rinks on the school grounds. The hydrant that was an obstruction to skaters in Jones park has been moved to the side from which the rink is hereafter to be flooded.

New feature great advance in closed car design

New Metropolitan Sedan De Luxe

The Richest Bodies that ever graced a famous chassis

Today are presented two new Chandler enclosed bodies, eminently worthy of the famous chassis on which they are mounted.

It is fairly to be questioned whether any of America's exclusive custom body builders has ever achieved greater harmony of line, form, finish and detail.

As a part of their construction Chandler announces the new V & V Windshield—a radical improvement in design that vastly increases the pleasure of closed car driving.

Consisting of a single plate of glass, the V & V Windshield affords clear and complete vision to persons of all heights. There is no rubber strip to strain the eyes; no split to leak air or water; no unsightly quadrants or braces; no thumb screws to rattle or stick.

Perfect Ventilation

All degrees of ventilation are provided in a manner that is absolutely new:

Instead of tilting, the entire windshield slides upward in felt lined channels, responding to an easy turning handle above the shield. With half a turn, a ventilating current of air is conducted through the cowl to the car floor—although the shield itself is tightly sealed!

On any boulevard—in any company—these two new sedans will dominate.

See These Two New Models at Once!

Their color scheme is a brilliant combination of black and Luxor Blue divided by a double molding smartly striped with gold.

Their appearance of unusual length and rakish lowness has been achieved by reducing their overall height to less than six feet without impairing head room or road clearance.

Elegance of Detail

An unstinted elegance of detail—typical of Fisher coachwork—characterizes the interiors. The soft gray mohair upholstery is applied with corded edges instead of being taped. Garnish moldings are of Circassian walnut, harmonizing with a similarly finished instrument board. The hardware is satin surfaced with brightly burnished high lights. The seats are low, pillowy, and pitched at an arm chair angle. Even the arm rests are upholstered over springs.

In the famous Chandler chassis, the Pikes Peak Motor provides absolute mastery over all hill and traffic problems; the Traffic Transmission insures silent, certain speed changes under all conditions; full balloon tires eliminate the effects of road irregularities; Chandler 4-wheel brakes provide extra safety at a slight extra cost; and Chandler quality construction is an unflinching guarantee of unflinching service.

KORNELY LOSES HIS LICENSE AS REALTY BROKER

Appleton Real Estate Dealer Says He Will Appeal Case to Courts

License of T. A. Kornely to act as a real estate broker was revoked by the Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers' board at Madison in an order issued on Wednesday. The order was issued as the result of a hearing here on the 14th on charges against Mr. Kornely by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beckman.

The Beckman complaint was based on a real estate transaction which had been the basis of a suit in court here. Fraud and misrepresentation was alleged but the court ruled that the testimony did not bear out the counter complaint and the jury was discharged. A settlement was effected between the Beckmans and Mr. Kornely.

Mr. Kornely declared Wednesday that he would appeal the order of the real estate board to the courts. In all probability the case will be placed before the circuit court of Dane county in which all appeals from the state board decisions are heard.

The real estate board announced at the same time that the license of Charles Schweiman, of Milwaukee, had been revoked. Applications of Morris Wald and Julian Cam of Milwaukee and Gust F. Rohlf of Appleton for licenses were denied.

BIRTHS

YOUNG MEN ENTERTAINED WITH ATHLETIC MATCHES

A boxing match and a wrestling match entertained members of St. Aloisius Young Men's society following installation of new officers in St. Joseph hall Tuesday evening. The boxers were Clem Boehm and George Smith. Robert Kramhold and Edward Steenis were in the wrestling match.

Officers installed are: Ray Dehr, president; Al Stoegebauer, vice president; Walter Schomisch, recording secretary; Harold Hassman, financial secretary.

BUILDING PERMITS

Permit for the construction of a garage was issued from the city hall Tuesday to Carl Itetza, 301 Northst. Although there were seventy less residences built this year than in the previous year, garage permits for 1924 practically equal the number issued in 1923. A total of 309 garage permits have been issued, as compared with 311 in the preceding year.

CHILDREN PLEASE IN CHRISTMAS PLAY

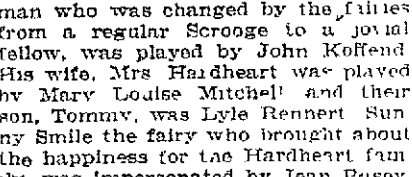

Third Grade Youngsters of Lincoln School Entertain Large Audience

The Lincoln School operaetta "Christmas Fairies" was presented by the Third grade children Tuesday evening in Feabody hall before a large audience. Carols were sung by a group of conservatory students to start the evening's program.

Probably the favorite presentation was a dance, "The Rustic Courtship" in which Grace Bitter and Lyle Renkert took part. Other very popular numbers were "The French Doll" dance by Grace Bitter and the dialogue, "A Christmas Stocking" by John Koffend and Lyle Rennert. The songs in the intermission were sung by groups of brownies, dollies and fairies and were unusually well chosen by Miss Katherine Bachman, who directed the play.

Squire Hardheart, the cross old man who was changed by the fairies from a regular Scrooge to a jovial fellow, was played by John Koffend. His wife, Mrs. Hardheart was played by Mary Louise Mitchell and their son, Tommy, was Lyle Rennert. Sunny Smile the fairy who brought about the happiness for the Hardheart family, was impersonated by Jean Reesey.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus appeared from somewhere and gave candy and cones to children in the audience. They gave a tiny gift and a candied apple to each member of the cast. These gifts were given by members of the Metacord class, which is under the direction of Mr. Earl Baker.

RADIO PROGRAMS

Two big features of Tuesday evening's program were cooperative efforts of several stations. A Brunswick hour of music featured such famous artists as Leopold Godowsky, pianist, Claude Dux and J. C. Thomas was broadcast by five powerful stations and a musical program of music presented by the Goodrich Rubber Co., employees and their Silverton Cord orchestra was broadcast by four other large stations.

Another interesting program was that presented by students of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa. This program was given through WPA, the university of Iowa station at Iowa City. Watch this station for important Big Ten basketball games after Christmas.

WVAF has an excellent program Wednesday evening. Some of the numbers are the United States Navy Band direct from Washington, D. C. L. Gilbert Simon, baritone; Waldorf Astoria hotel orchestra, Concert by Alfred Y. Cornell and Artist pupils Palm Beach orchestra. WVAF presents a varied program of artists and stars under the auspices of the Booklyn Eagle. H. V. Kullerborn in Topics of the Day leads this program. WVCO presents a sport review of athletics of the past few months and some future prospects at 6 o'clock.

Henry Fillmore and the Stylah Temple Shrine bands are on the air from WLW. Special features of this program are humorous clarinet duets, special stunts, piccolo, trumpet and clarinet solos and Bobby Alter with his famous Vox Ferio. Watch for the big feature from WSB, "The Voice of the South," Thursday evening.

Y. M. C. A. CLUBS FINISH WORK FOR THIS YEAR

Sophomore Triangle club held a supper and meeting Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Bible study and regular business occupied the evening. It was decided that the club will prepare a Christmas basket for a poor family of Appleton. Because of the large amount of business to be transacted this year another meeting will be held next Tuesday. After which the club will adjourn until 1925. The Christmas business for this year was completed. Lloyd Town send of Green Bay, leader of the club will leave tomorrow for the Christmas holidays.

Members of the Freshman Triangle and Blackhawk clubs will compete in a stunt night Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. All members of the boys' division are invited to attend. Each club will present its stunt to the group and judges will announce the winner.

An unusual opportunity to get a beautiful Fur Coat at a saving of over 40% now at Dawson Style Shop. A big line of Sample Coats to be closed out at once. This sale positively closes tomorrow night.

Packard The Name of a Fine Piano

The Gift of the Ages

TO THESE THREE FACTORS ALONE—can the greater portion of the enviable reputation and undeniable distinction of Packard Pianos be credited:

- First: The finest select materials.
- Second: The accuracy in design.
- Third: Created by skilled piano builders who have music in their hearts and souls—who through the years have learned to impart this harmony into the deep, rich, exquisite, voice-blending tone found in the Packard.

That's why the possession of a Packard Piano is something to be proud of—not only at Christmas time but every day in the year. Come in to see, hear and play the Packard. You'll want it if you do.

CONSIDER CABBAGE MARKETING BODY

Association Will Decide Thursday on Adoption of Brand for Product

Incorporation under state laws and formation of a cooperative company to market the crop are questions which will be considered by Outagamie County Cabbage Growers Association at the annual meeting at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Appleton city hall.

Members have proposed that the constitution be rewritten so it will be possible to affiliate with other cabbage growers' organizations in the county, especially those at Shilshon and Black Creek.

L. C. Foster of Wisconsin department of markets, Madison, will aid the association in its decision concerning cooperative shipping of the crop. It is possible that a brand will be established and local cabbage graded and shipped through a shipping association.

Decision also will be reached concerning the amount of seed which the association will buy in 1925.

SOPHOMORES AND HIGH BOYS MEET ON ALLEYS

Sophomore Triangle club bowling team has challenged the High club to a series of matches to be rolled on the Y. M. C. A. alleys for the championship of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. The High club will accept the challenge, according to A. Montgomery, manager of the team. The games probably will be rolled on a Saturday morning during the Christmas vacation, but no definite date has been announced.

Season

By Associated Press
Berlin — Amazing changes have come about in Berlin with the opening of the new theatrical and musical season, the business revival affected by the stabilized rentmark, and the adoption of the agreement worked out at the London conference for the execution of the Dawes plan.
High-priced hotels are crowded there are theatre and opera houses almost nightly, various German commercial organizations are holding conventions and conferences, directors of various shipping companies are preparing for the extension of their activities and hoteliers have been encouraged to greater activity. Hotel lobbies are more brightly lighted and private dining rooms are again opening many parties. Berlin hotel keepers are especially jubilant over the dropping of the tax of 15 per cent which the city has imposed on all foreigners occupying rooms in Berlin.
Berlin's leading hotels are taking on an especially international aspect, and celebrities from all parts of the world are again appearing here as in pre-war days.
In the lobby of a single hotel Mrs. Katherine Tegen, Genoa, Valeria, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Isadora Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Ruth Dawes, H. M. Robinson, Leo Slezak, Gerhard Hauptmann, Max Reinhardt, Mascagni, Maria Gay, Julia Culp, Fritz Masary and a score of other persons known to newspaper readers the world over were recently to be seen.

USE STEAM SHOVEL TO DIG EARTH FOR FILLS

The big steam shovel of the Appleton Grading and Excavating company is digging the earth which the street department is using to fill in several ravines at sidewalks. The earth is being taken from the Fox line subway near the City home and is being used to fill in the ravine on Mason-st near Pierce park in place of the bridge that was planned, and also for the ravine on Rogers-ave between Outagamie and Mason-sts, and on both sides of Fairview-st near Second-st. The road at the city isolation hospital also is being filled in.

TELL GRAND JURY ABOUT RUM RUNNER

Walter Scherck, deputy sheriff, and D. P. French, a Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League superintendent, both of Appleton, and Thomas W. Martin, federal prohibition officer, Green Bay, have returned from Milwaukee, where they appeared before the federal grand jury in connection with the case of William VanBroeklin of Oshkosh, who was arrested near Green Bay on July 3 for transporting liquor.

He was apprehended by Scherck and the prohibition officer after a long chase. The man eluded the officer by a few minutes in Kimberly, but he was trapped on the other side of Green Bay. He had been making regular trips as a booze runner between Oshkosh and Green Bay. It is charged. When arrested, he had 10 gallons of alcohol costing $86.50. VanBroeklin is at liberty on bonds of $1,000.

EXPECT LARGE SUM FROM BENEFIT MOVIE

Appleton Welfare council is confident that the benefit motion picture which will be shown at Fischer's Appleton theater next Monday afternoon for the Good Fellows club will provide a large sum for relief of Appleton's poor people this winter. Manager Louis Lutz has offered to give the entire proceeds of the matinee performance to the Good Fellows and has arranged an excellent program. The picture will be "Triumph," featuring Leatrice Joy and Rod LaRocque.

RIED CRITICALLY ILL IN ARIZONA

T. B. Reid, 642 Green Bay-st, formerly editor of the Appleton Post, is critically ill from pneumonia at Phoenix, Ariz., where he had planned to spend the winter, according to information received from his daughter, Miss Estelle Reid, who is with him. He has been ill for about a week and his condition Tuesday was regarded as very grave.
Mr. Reid and his daughter left for Phoenix immediately after Thanksgiving day and rented an apartment in the Arizona city. He was in his usual good health when he arrived in Phoenix and was the subject of a long article in one of the Phoenix newspapers. In an interview he described his early life in Wisconsin, discussed his politics and declared he was much pleased with the climate in Arizona. Mr. Reid was 81 years old on Dec. 15.

BARRINGTON HAS SCOTT'S IMAGERY IN "DIVINE LADY"

Splendid Tale of Love and Devotion Built Around Slender History

BY ELEANOR WING

The appeal that Scott has always made to his readers through his imaginative treatment of an historical mesh of truth is keenly felt in "The Divine Lady," a romance of Nelson and Lady Emma Hamilton, by R. Barrington, published recently by H. Dodd, Meade and Co. The author, figuratively speaking, spreads the magic carpet of many colors, and sets Nelson and Lady Emma upon it. A puff of wind sets them off on its journey, and their course is unbelievably exciting.

Emma who has been painted in every pose of her beauty by Romney, until she has come down through the centuries as his Divine Lady, dominates the story far more than Lord Nelson, for she is the motivating impulse in his life. Without her inspiration, Trafalgar might never have been, and without her succor in time of peril England might not have maintained her mastery of the sea.

The author states in his preface that he has gleaned his facts from the famous biographies of Mahan, Sichel, and Laughton. But the imagination that envelops with glamour the evolution of these historical facts, side by side with the love story was never found anywhere but in the author's fabled Dante's. Some of the sparks that have kindled the love for Beatrice and Rossetti's love for his lady, must have been transferred to Barrington when he was at the age of hero worship. He must have been inspired when he sat in the great ship, Victory, which he called the "sea cathedral" in which Nelson sailed to his doom. He must have believed in Romney's glorification of Emma, because he is rapturous at times when he is compelled to show the deterioration of the heroine's character as the heavy wine of triumph shoves her from her pedestal.

The development and deterioration of Emma's character seem very obvious to the reader when he analyzes the story after he has finished reading it. The heroine goes far when she is repressed and compelled by criticism, and retrogresses under flattery and prestige. But Barrington has the true story teller's art. The reader is never conscious of defects while in the midst of the story. Analysis and criticism come only in retrospect, because this tale is all encompassing.

The minor characters are not really less important than the major ones, although their roles affect the historical episodes rather than the romantic ones. The queen is vividly futile as a dummy character upon a tottering throne. Sir William is a dupe of his love for Emma, but is powerful in his ambassadorship for England. Greyville is the wise nun of the story, who is not lovable because he is never swayed by impulse. And Romney is a romantic and mysterious artist, who must lose the only inspiration he has ever found.

Emma is beautiful. We are told so again and again, and never tire of the telling, because some of the loveliest lines in fiction stories are left over to us from younger days. We are sorry, though, that the words "And they lived happily ever after" could not be written on the last page of the thrilling story.

Gossip About Book People

ENGLISH IN 2400

London — English as it will be spoken 500 years from now will not have much in common with the present day abuses of the language, according to Daniel Jones, professor of phonetics at the University of London. In the faraway future generations, Scotchmen will talk like Englishmen, while the general tongue of the highly cultured people will be "snapper-corkney with a little Scotch accent."

Professor Jones's idea is that the language of today was cockney to Shakespeare, and that the speech of southern England now is getting nearer to the cockney. In some places the cockney has already the upper hand and there is a decided trend in others to adopt the accent in words which contain the letter "n". The wide difference in the dialect of the English provinces accelerates this tendency, the professor says, as the various dialects weaken the common language and destroy its roots after a few years.

Within 500 years, Professor Jones predicts, the Gaelic language will have nearly disappeared and the native Irish (Gael) will be heard no more. Of this group of languages only Welsh will remain.

The best example the lecturer knows of the English of the future is to take the word cart and pronounce it "car-r-t."

Lastly come the Indians themselves, who, without the slightest trace of Caucasian or other foreign

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

FISHERMAN'S LUCK ON A BIG SCALE

Departing from his usual method of exposing some sham bit by bit and cutting to the bone of some form of "bunk," Johan Boyer, the Norwegian novelist, in "The Last of the Vikings," has written the prose epic of the Scandinavian fisheries, a large part of it almost as near to poetry as the prose form will allow and as far removed from the analytical novel that we have become used to from Boyer as is very well possible.

The title very obviously contains an echo of the title of Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans." But that is the only thing in the book that is imitative. It is almost as clear as it is that the writer has stated it in so many words that the book is derived from first-hand information and that Johan Boyer is describing things that in one form or another he himself took part in as a young fellow.

IT'S FISHING YARN

The story may be described in a few words. It is nothing more nor less than the yarn of how a small Norwegian fishing fleet goes to the north for eight or nine months to fish for cod; their daily life; the hardships they have to endure; death in the frozen north; a fisherman attacked by leprosy and "carrying on" in spite of it; near half fights; battles on the ocean between boats for favorable positions on the fishing spots; tornadoes that wipe out the savings of a lifetime; capsize crews rescued by comrades at the risk of almost certain death for themselves; the excitement of the chase after a run of cod when men forget to eat or sleep in their eagerness to make big hauls and when they allow their socks and underclothes to freeze to their skins so that they have to be peeled off weeks later at the expense of excruciating pain; the return home and the stories of life and death that families have to tell them.

Such pictures make up the epic of this book of fisherman's luck on a big scale. And the impression is very definitely given by the author that the incidents he describes were commonplace to the characters who took part in them, that they were the everyday life of thousands of Norwegian fishermen all along the Scandinavian shores for centuries. He refers to the men of his story as the last of the Vikings because towards the end of the tale steam takes the place of the sailboat and thus brings the heroic age to an end.

IT FALLS SHORT

"The last of the Vikings," in spite of its elements of greatness, is one of those books that gives a baffling sense of falling short. It is possible that the translation has something to do with this; not infrequently a book that has just exactly the right tempo in one language fails to catch it in another. Sometimes the translator is unable to rise to the poetry of the original because too often translating books is left to hack workers who are shamefully underpaid. Sometimes also a given writer's favor cannot be transferred to another language.

Whatever the reason, whether Johan Boyer falls short in the original or whether the translation is at fault, "The Last of the Vikings," which judging from its theme and conception should have been one of the world's great novels is just a very fine novel and no more. It is competently done and I unhesitatingly recommend it to anyone who loves good work in fiction, but it is not entirely satisfying to find that a book that seemed to have possibilities for supremely great work is merely good and no more—that a book that ought to have been among the great and great books is merely "great" and no more. I have the same feeling about it that I had about "The Covered Wagon" as a movie. There was an epic theme and the very possibilities of it ought to have shamed the producers into treating it with artistic dignity instead of cluttering it up with trivialities and even with cheap sentiment. When a theme is in itself supremely great it is all the more criminal to debauch it.

But in spite of that, read "The Last of the Vikings," and the next time you eat codfish consider for a moment the heroic life-and-death struggles that were necessary to bring that dish to your table.

Santa Claus Wins Paris Thru Verse

BY WILLIAM IVY

Paris — Those who frequent the old Latin quarter—or what is left of that romantic region amid the whirl of modern life—have noticed, day after day at the same table in front of an ancient cafe, a round and jolly little man with a gray beard.

It might, of course, be Santa Claus, if one still believed in Santa Claus; it might be Maitre Francois Babolais, with jovial and slightly malicious eye, come back to observe and record the follies and follies of old Paris.

However, as you have guessed, it is neither. This plump Socratic septuagenarian is simply Raoul Ponchon, rhymist and journalist; perhaps the only journalist who never wrote but in verse, perhaps the only poet who wrote only for the newspapers.

GIVEN A SURPRISE

Almost anybody in Paris who knows anything can tell you a string of anecdotes about Raoul Ponchon, for everybody knows him and everybody is delighted to repeat his latest bon mot, generally barbed with satire and designed to get irritatingly under the skin of some too pompous person in the public eye.

But the most surprising thing that ever happened in connection with Ponchon was the newspaper announcement that he had been elected to the Academie Goncourt. And nobody was more surprised than Ponchon himself, for not only had he not sought the honor, but the venerable Goncourt academy had been the target for some of his sharpest jibes.

The Goncourt academy is something like the Academie Francaise, but smaller, it has only 10 members instead of 40 and newer, since it dates back only about a quarter of a century, constitute nearly 50 per cent of the entire population of the country. This great substitution of the Mexican nation presents a problem in self-government so difficult and complex as to discourage any but the most exalted and ardent believers in democracy.

They are people but little affected by the veneer of civilization under which they have lived for 400 years. In large part they will still follow the old customs of their fathers, live the old Indian dialects, retain the Indian outlook upon life, cherish the old Indian conception of social and political relationship. Know nothing of national patriotism or ties of unity outside their tribal or small community associations, and have neither any understanding of the alien form of government under which they live nor any desire to participate in its operation.

Such is the great body of raw material out of which Mexico must build her popular institutions and fashion her democratic government.

Another of the great drawbacks to self-government in Mexico is the lack of education among the people. It is certainly a very conservative statement to say that 50 per cent of the entire population are illiterate, and probably not half of the 20 per cent who can read and write possess more than these bare rudiments of an education. How can a democracy be successfully erected on such a foundation?

An Armenian Son Writes Best Seller

MICHAEL ARLEN

BY THE NEA BOOK SUPPLY

Since Michael Arlen has crashed the gate of the best sellers with "The Green Hat" (Doran) it is high time that this very amusing young man was being properly introduced.

Therefore, meet Mikram Kouyoumdjian. For that is his real name and it readily can be realized why the gay son of Armenia takes a nom de plume of such Irish simplicity.

It was some five years ago that a few esoteric explorers of the literary woods came upon the fast starving form of "The London Venture" and thereafter those who read him made the quick acquaintance of the smart London world of clubs people with people of fat income. These people toss such sophisticated talk as: "I like you well enough as a man, but I don't begin touring the world?" he acquiesces with an accent of mock drollness.

Those who know him can easily and without hesitation answer, "No." For despite his 74 years Raoul Ponchon is one of the youngest men in Paris.

However, it is going to be hard for him to desert that old Latin quarter which he has haunted now for 50 years. And it would be strange indeed not to find him each afternoon seated at his favorite table behind a tall and foaming glass.

An Outstanding Service

The development of the Cracking Process by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is one of the outstanding achievements in the progress of the petroleum industry.

The history of cracking, as a commercial development, is written large in the annals of this organization.

It is impossible to calculate the good which—directly or indirectly—has come from the development of this scientific process for increasing the world's supply of gasoline.

Without it the great automotive industry, which has influenced to so striking a degree the every-day life of the people of this country, never could have attained its present gigantic proportions.

In 1913, American refineries produced about 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline, which constituted about 12 1/2% of the crude oil run in refinery stills.

In 1923, American refineries produced about 7,500,000,000 gallons of gasoline, which constituted about 30% of the crude oil run in refinery stills. A substantial part of this increase was made possible by the Cracking Process.

The Burton Process, developed in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), is acknowledged to be the first commercial process available and, while others have developed processes to achieve similar results, the greater part of the gasoline made by the Cracking Process comes from Burton stills.

While developing the Burton process, for increasing the production of gasoline from a given quantity of crude oil, is an outstanding service, it is but one of the many services rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to keep the supply of gasoline sufficient to meet the demands of the motoring public.

CHRISTMAS TALES POPULAR THIS WEEK

Anna Sedgwick's "The Little French Girl" is Much in Demand

Books of Christmas stories were much in demand at Appleton public library last week, as well as books containing Christmas drills and exercises for school children. Among the most wanted were "The Other Wise Man" by Henry Van Dyke, "Ben Hur" by Lewis Wallace, "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens and "The Birds' Christmas Carol" by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Other booklets that were extremely popular last week were "The Little French Girl" by Anne D. Sedgwick, "Rose of the World" by Kathleen Norris, "East of the Setting Sun" by George Barr McCutcheon, "The Mine with the Iron Door" by Harold Bell Wright, and "The Real Sarah Bernhardt" by Basil Woon.

"The Real Sarah Bernhardt" by Woon is one of the most interesting books in the library. It is an authentic story of the life of the great actress and is said to contain many anecdotes that heretofore have been untold.

"The Beauty of the Purple" by William Stearns Davis is one of the newer books that have been given considerable attention. The story pictures the brilliant life of Christian Constantine in the Eighteenth century. The central figure is the Emperor Leo, the Isaurian, who by sheer personal merit and ability rose from the ranks of a common peasant to be the deliverer of Constantinople and probably all Christendom, when the Saracens attacked "New Rome" in the siege of 717 A. D.

I couldn't stand you as a co-respondent," or "Clever women are born with rouge on their cheeks."

The trail from "Macfair to Soho" is paved with Arlesian epigrams in the "Romantic Lady" and "Piracy" and quite his best thing; "These Charming People."

"The Green Hat," written with the same swagger as most of his other books, suffers from a disappointing end. On the whole, his books, while individually most amusing, are cut on the same pattern and should be read at least a month apart.

Since Arlen is extremely man-of-the-worldish, with a Paris flare, the presence of his book in the list of best sellers is the latest victory for sophistication.

LAWRENCE OFFICIALLY GIVEN LITTLE FIVE TITLE

Grid Championship Is Seventh Copped Under Catlin's Leadership

Football Regulars Hold Banquet Tuesday Night to Give Graduating Vets a Sendoff

Lawrence football regulars and coaches Tuesday evening celebrated the official award of the 1924 Little Five championship at a banquet in the Conway hotel. The title was awarded to Lawrence at the conference of Little Five coaches in Milwaukee Saturday, at which it also was discovered that Ripon, contrary to newspaper reports, had made no claims to the championship.

Tuesday's banquet also was in the nature of a farewell to veterans who graduate next year and have played their last games with the Lawrence squad. They are Stoll, Holdridge, Packard and Fold. All line men. Short speeches were made by each of these veterans and by Coach Catlin, Denney, Blackburn and Sylvester, and later the gathering discussed the past season and prospects for next year.

The title awarded Saturday was the seventh won by a Lawrence squad under the tutelage of Mark Catlin, and is the more worthy of praise as Catlin took over the reins after a mediocre season, when they were badly demoralized and prospects seemed none too bright. Golden football will be given the regulars who played the required number of minutes in conference games, but as these had not yet arrived Tuesday evening the ceremony had to be postponed.

COE PLAYS HERE

Catlin stated Tuesday that the schedule as arranged at Milwaukee Saturday probably would be final, although it had been adopted tentatively. The major game of the season, according to this menu, will be with Coe here on Oct. 17. Coe this year held the University of Wisconsin eleven to a tie, and has better prospects than ever for next year, according to the present outlook.

Many fans were in favor of playing a Big Ten team again next year, after the brilliant showing Catlin's players made against Iowa, but Catlin refused on the grounds that the profit of such a game would not be great enough to risk crippling his best men.

According to A. C. Denney, athletic director at Lawrence, Coach Tommy Mills eliminated his Beloit squad from the championship running in the Little Five when he refused to schedule games with Carroll college of Waukegan. In order to compete for the title, it is necessary to play every college in the conference, and Mills' refusal to meet Carroll despite the latter's acceptance of the freshman rule bars the former from the race. Northwestern, being the smallest college in the Little Five, is exempt from the freshman rule, but only for next year. After that it will apply there also.

MERILL MAN IS HILLTOP CAPTAIN

Twenty Three Marquette Regulars Awarded Football Letters

Milwaukee—Francis Lake of Milwaukee was elected captain of the 1925 Marquette university football team at the annual banquet here Monday night. Letters were awarded to the following players:

Captain Lavern Dillweg, Lester Gorch, Gerand Lunz, Peter Cortwright, Loren Tiefenthaler, Robert Dempling, Donald Curtin, James King, John Helmsch, Irving Leichter, John Kub, and Joe Vallier, all of Milwaukee; John Fahay, St. Paul, Minn.; Lawrence Hall, Rochester, Minn.; Captain Elect Lane, Merrill, Wis.; Pepples, Thorp, Frank Gavin, and Richard Ender, Green Bay; Donald Craigo and Francis McCormick, Antigo; George Skemp and John L. Sullivan, LaCrosse; and Clifford Kampmeier, Marinette.

MARQUETTE WILL HAVE GOOD SQUAD DESPITE LOSSES

Plenty of Experienced Men for Every Position Is Prospect for 1925

Milwaukee — Marquette university in spite of the loss from three to five regulars on the football squad, will have plenty of experienced material to draw from next season. Coach Frank Murray declares there are good men for every position.

Ed O'Neil, Milwaukee, and Loren Costello, Chicago, will seek tackle berth next season. Jerry Kelly, Chicago, and Hart of Chippewa Falls, are likely recruits for the guard positions.

Cornie Dunn, brother of the famous "Red" Dunn of Marquette, and "Red" Dunn, both of Milwaukee, are expected to play. John Padden of New Richmond has announced intentions of trying for end positions. Dunn also is quarterback and a triple threat man.

For backfield material Coach Murray has, besides the regulars, Joe Leary, Janesville, outstanding half back; Kamps, Marinette, fullback; Joe Rooney and Tom Maloney, Chicago, linebacks; and Ernest Aberdeen, S. D., quarterbacks.

Pennant Plays In Basketball

By Coach Earl Wright

California Coast Champions

This play requires a high degree of technique, but is very effective if mastered. Ball batted to R. F., relayed to R. G., who dribbles clear to the corner of the court, jumps in the air and passes high to the L. F., who has just come through under the basket. L. F. bats the ball to the C. on foul line, who feints toward the basket and passes (on bounce) passed either to the R. F., who has circled and approached from the left, or to the L. F., who has turned around. Note the R. F. has plenty of time and can remain in the center of the court ready for defense until the R. G. has successfully started his dribble.

APPLETON QUINT CUTS HOLIDAY TO GET IN PRACTICE

Orange Cagers Pointing for Opener with Sheboygan Here on Jan. 2

Christmas holidays will put an end to basketball practice at Appleton high school for several days, but Coach Jule Kevin plans to cut his vacation as short as possible in order to get in plenty of drill before the opening game with Sheboygan here on Jan. 2.

The Orange caging candidates have been out every afternoon for two weeks, putting in two days a week on the Armory G court where they will play all regular games this year, and the rest in the high school gymnasium.

Several new men look like sure prospects for the first squad, and with Courtney, Frazer, Soll, Ash man and Bowby as a nucleus, Kevin expects to have a strong but light quintet in the field when the season opens.

The fact that Zachary continued to pitch as effectively without the use of the tape keeping up the fine work in the world series, is probably the one thing that kept trouble from brewing.

Piece Of Tape Almost Upsets American Loop

Southpaw Zachary Is Forced to Use Protective Measure in Hurling His Knuckle Ball

Washington—It is permissible for a ball player, particularly a pitcher, to place a piece of adhesive tape on one of his pitching fingers.

While not generally known, that seemingly trivial question caused much confusion in the home stretch of the American League race last season.

Southpaw Zachary of the Washington club throws a knuckle ball that is hard on the outside of the second finger of his pitching hand.

At some time in every game he pitches, the finger becomes very sore. In a certain game last season Zachary applied a piece of adhesive tape to stop the flow of blood.

In that game Zachary discovered that the addition of the adhesive tape, which made it possible for him to get a firmer hold on the ball, caused his knuckle to take a more deceptive break.

From then on adhesive tape became a part of Zachary's pitching paraphernalia.

Ty Cobb was the first to discover the use of the tape by Zachary. Prior to the start of the game he complained to the umpire that it was against the rules. The umpire's upheld the contention after ascertaining Zachary's finger was uninjured.

Detroit then proceeded to knock Zachary out of the box in the first inning, after the umpire had compelled him to remove the tape.

President Johnson ruled that Zachary had no right to use the tape in an effort to get a better break on the ball, classifying it as a trick pitching.

Whenupon Clarke Griffith, up to every angle of the game, insisted that if a pitcher had a sore finger there was nothing in the rules to prevent him from protecting the injury with adhesive tape. Also, that it would be possible always to have the finger slightly sore, if so desired.

The fact that Zachary continued to pitch as effectively without the use of the tape keeping up the fine work in the world series, is probably the one thing that kept trouble from brewing.

However, for a time, a little strip of adhesive tape had the American League on the verge of another upheaval.

Winning Pennant First Year Handicaps Harris

Kid Manager of Washington Club Must Repeat 1924 Performance to Retain Prestige

When a major league ball club wins a pennant, then follows it up with a world championship, there is nothing left for it to do but win another.

Once a team is returned a pennant winner, there is nothing else to shoot at. If the manager and team would do as well, they must repeat their success.

A manager who takes a team that is well down in the race and shows an improvement over a period of years, finally coming through with a pennant, is indeed fortunate.

Said manager by bettering his position each year, has achieved success after what is termed a hard going, entailing much work and sacrifice.

The status of such a manager is much better for more stable, than one who pulls the miracle stuff and wins baseball's highest honors with a team not seriously considered.

HARRIS MUST REPEAT

That is the position that Stashev Harris, brilliant second baseman and resourceful leader of the Washington club, finds himself in. He won a pennant and world series in a year that no one conceded him an even outside chance.

Washington enjoyed the winning of the pennant and world series as few other cities ever had. However, now that the fans have gotten over the initial thrill, there will be a tendency to become blasé and adopt the show-me spirit.

Few clubs have won a pennant through superior pitching and defensive strength as did Washington. A strong offensive has usually featured the play of most pennant winners. Like Washington, the Chicago White Sox of 1906 was one of the few exceptions.

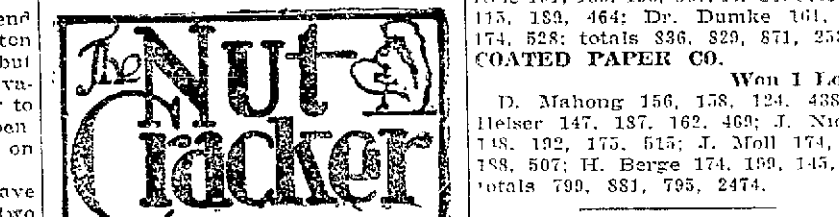

Incidentally, Washington disproved another theory that a team is no stronger than its substitutes. Such being the case, the Nats would have been nowhere.

Manager Harris is confronted with the task of again delivering in order to live up to the high standard already there is the chance that he may not have his pitching ace, Walter Johnson, in the lineup. Take away a pitcher figured to win 20 games and you immediately put a crimp in a club's chances. That's Johnson.

The possessor of the best infield in the American League, Harris is without a capable substitute at three of the positions in case of accident or illness.

An injury that would keep his star catcher, Muddy Ruel, out of the game for any great length of time would be disastrous, probably fatal.

Gift Suggestions

It is hard to tell just what is appropriate for a gift. We suggest you give him the Nut Cracker.

Be guarded in selecting a remembrance for a golfer. Links sausage has nothing to do with the links.

Nothing pleases a fourth prize fighter more than a big fat ham. As a sentimental touch call the ham Jess Willard.

Iron pipes are always welcomed by retired football players, who like to crack themselves over the bean and imagine they are scrummaging again.

While we are not positive, it seems to us that any three-cushion player would be crazy about a nice fancy sewing set.

In giving a polo player a horse never bring the animal into a cultured home without first learning whether he has sowed his wild oats.

It is not considered good form to send a lady wrestler a carton of cigars. She may prefer cigars.

Rocks on legal matters do not make suitable gifts and besides tennis champions know all about the courts anyway.

Baseball acouts never seem to tire of ivory. At this period of the year, however they may prefer soap to tucks.

For adventurous dimes going over Niagara Falls in tubs illness make the best gift. Water lilies of course.

If your friend is a barnyard golfer, save your money and give him a stall. That will make him feel right at home.

San Pedro, Calif — Sailor Jimmy Hankley, battle fleet featherweight champion, defeated Sailor River King, champion of the all-navy featherweight title.

Madison — Ray Kubley, Pupa, Wis., has been elected captain of the 1925 cross country team of the University of Wisconsin as reward for work done this fall with the Badger championship harriers. He finished ninth in the conference meet at Ann Arbor and finished once first and second twice in three dual meets.

Kubley was a member of the Lawrence track team in 1922, taking first place in all distance events in which he was entered.

Paris — Lucier Vinez, European lightweight champion, outpointed Paul Fritsch in a 20-round title bout.

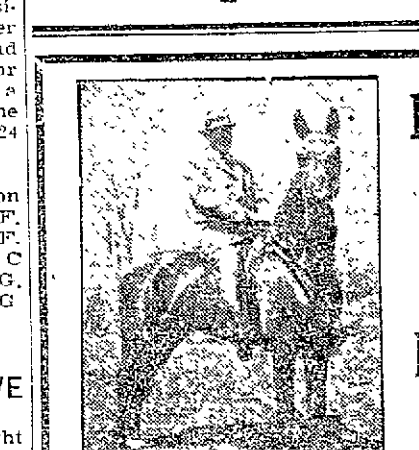

LAWRENCE CAGERS READY FOR MILTON

Fans urged to Secure Tickets Early to Avoid Crush at Box Office

Lawrence cagers were all set Wednesday for their opening game with Milton in Armory G, and although Milton was doped to win, it was expected the game would be a close one. Early indications were that the armory would be crowded despite the approaching holidays, and special arrangements were made to accommodate a large audience. No advance ticket sales were made. Tickets may be had at the box office before the game at 50 cents. It will be advisable to get there early in order to avoid the crush at the main doors when

WRESTLING BOUTS REVIVED AT DALE

Special to Post-Crescent

Dale—Wrestling will be revived in Dale during the coming winter months and the first big match will be staged here on Saturday night of this week, when Awdalt Witt, the local grappler, will meet Ritchie Osenger of Chicago in a two-hour limit match at catch weights. Osenger is said to be one of the best men in the Windy City of his weight, but he will meet a tough proposition when he tackles Witt, and wrestlers will favor the local man. Several high class preliminaries will precede the main bout, the first of which will start at 8:30.

Household Suggestions

WATERMELON CUBES

Watermelon, cut into cubes and sprinkled lightly with lemon and powdered sugar, is an easily prepared dessert and a most delicious one.

BRUSHES AND CLOTHS

Brushes and cloths that have been used with turpentine should be washed immediately or kept in tightly closed cans.

SEWING MACHINE OIL

Sewing machine oil may be used for oiling the washing machine, carpet sweeper and other household machinery.

PAPER TOWELING

Used paper toweling for draining foods that have been fried in oily fat.

STEEL SPATULA

Keep a wooden handled steel spatula on hand and use it to lift omelets.

cookies and griddle cakes from the pan and for removing cakes and pies from the dishes in which they were baked.

USE A MACHINE

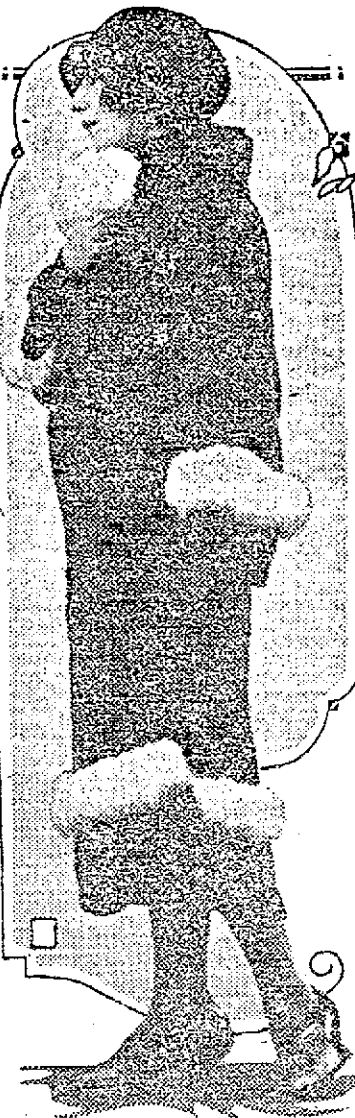

Let your sewing machine help you with your mending. Never waste time doing by hand what you can stitch on the machine.

Christmas Candy

PECAN MARGUERITES

One cup rolled light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup broken pecan meats, few grains salt, 3/4 teaspoon vanilla. Combine sugar, melted butter and yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Mix and sift flour with salt and baking powder and add with nuts to first mixture. Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry with vanilla. Fold whites into mixture. Drop from teaspoon on to a buttered and floured cookie sheet and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

Semi-Coat Dress

White fox fur and black duvetyne make this coat, which is most desirable for afternoon and semi-dress occasions. The other decoration of note is the diamond shaped bits of material which are cut away to reveal bits of embroidery in black silk. This ornament considerably below the waistline and gives the long-waisted effect that is so popular.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

Here's something funny that I forgot to tell you. You remember that letter that Paula wrote me, asking me not to flirt with anyone. Well, the moment she got to the wedding she spotted Mrs. Atherton immediately, and said:

"So this is the woman you are flirting with? You do not know when you are well off. With a lovely wife, to go around flirting with a red-headed woman is more than I can forgive."

Can you beat that, Syd? Most men can't. They are handicapped with a wife to look after their flirtations, but when a man's former sweetheart also takes up the cudgel for his wife, you can imagine he has some espionage to struggle against.

I wish you'd come over and stay with me, Syd, for a while, anyway. I'll get used to Leslie's being away. I have no one to talk to but mother, and she is the last woman I want to talk to under the circumstances, you know. Of course, if you won't come you must reconsider your determination not to write me, for I tell you, old man, I'm in great trouble, and I have always considered that you were the best friend any man ever had. Sincerely, JACK.

Night Letter From Mrs. Mary Alden Prescott, to Mrs. Leslie Prescott.

You ought to write me, my dear Leslie, for we are very anxious not only to know how your father is but how you yourself are getting on. I can see that John is very much concerned, although he has said nothing about it. You owe something to your husband, child, as well as to your father. Give my greatest sympathy to your mother. Tell her that I know exactly what she is going through, as my dear husband was ill a long time before he passed away. Little John is well and happy. He doesn't seem to miss you very much. He has become very fond of his grandmother. Love to you, my child. MOTHER PRESCOTT.

Night Letter From Beatrice Summers to Sally Atherton.

Send me immediately Leslie's address. Have mislaid it. Trip across country very delightful. Miss Perler much more human than you would expect a woman who has as much adulation as she would be. Have never known a woman so crazy about children. She seems to think Leslie's boy the loveliest child she ever saw; talks about him incessantly. Did you know she went up to the house to see him the night of the wedding? Dick and I are very happy, of course. Sometimes I wish this journey would never end as I dread Hollywood and Hollywood environment.

Razzing Is Poison For Home Peace

BY CYNTHIA GREY

When the Fergussons first moved into our neighborhood they were very popular. But, couple by couple, everyone seems to have dropped them. I think that the Browns and ourselves are the only people who see much of them any more.

I was a long time trying to figure out the cause of their unpopularity, but last Sunday night I think I discovered it.

We were asked to their house for tea. Mrs. Fergusson came to the door in a cute little flapper.

"Run up to my room to take off your things," she said to me. "I'd go with you but I must watch the muffins."

When I came down she was setting out ash-trays and cigars in the living room.

"Just sit down and talk to the men," she said to me. "Not having a cook, I can't be much of a hostess."

Out in the cute little kitchen there were cold baked ham and chicken on a huge platter. There were salad, and sandwiches, and chocolate cake.

"I would have all this work done but I had to stop and make those muffins," Mrs. Fergusson said to me.

"I asked Bill to bring me some from the delicatessen this afternoon but his mind was on his golf game, and he forgot to get them. Do you let your husband play golf?"

"He prefers tennis," I said.

"Golf's terribly expensive," Mrs. Fergusson sighed, as we sat down to supper. "We can't afford a maid any more. But I notice that Bill still has all the golf that he wants."

I saw Bill Fergusson flush darkly. But he couldn't have been more embarrassed than I as I thought how much the food we were eating had cost them.

"Business is rotten just now," Bill said to me as if to explain why they couldn't afford a maid.

"Tour is, anyhow," snapped his wife.

We left as soon as we decently could. I never have spent a more unhappy evening. And I never have hated anyone more than I did Bill Fergusson under his wife's remarks.

I wonder if she knows that to scold her husband in public doesn't humiliate him any more than it embarrasses her guests.

A great many wives do it, too—in a little, smiling sort of way, and they are the most unsuccessful wives I know.

The woman who doesn't stand up for her husband at all times is a total failure as a wife and a woman.

Adventures Of The Twins

SIX BROTHERS

"Will you please say a riddle that doesn't rhyme?" asked Nancy.

"Why, bless your heart, Of course I will," said the Riddle Lady. "I'll tell you a story and you can guess what it is."

I hope it is about something to eat," said Taffy.

Well, it is. I'll tell you that much," smiled the Riddle Lady.

"But I'm not sure that you would care for it much."

"What is the riddle?" asked Nick, who really liked riddles better than cross-word puzzles.

"It's about six little Irish boys by the name of Green," said the Riddle Lady. "And because they were green and their names were Green, they lived in a green house. A funny house it was—quite long and narrow and not a window in it."

"Well, the six little Green boys—"

Christmas Presents

FILE BOOK

In this day of budget keeping any woman would appreciate a file in which to keep household accounts, bills, receipts, etc. Remove the stiff covering from some book which you no longer care to keep. Cover this backing with cretonne, linen or any attractive material, using the same material on the inside. Bind the edges and put a pocket, on each side of the cover and include two small memorandums. A leather clasp or ribbon to hold the cover closed completes the gift.

Smart Sleeve Feature

A very smart sleeve is featured in this dress of golden brown satin crepe. The puff is one of the most recent developments in sleeves and is very lovely as you can see. Velvet of a darker shade than the gown, braided in gaiters about the low belt, the sleeves and forms the upstanding collar. A very pretty effect is achieved by the narrow bands of this material looped down either side of the front.

Mirrors Work Magic Change In Any Room

Mirrors transform small rooms into banquet halls, render places into gay, inactivity into a living, throbbing picture.

Wherever they are placed they enhance the value of a room's appearance. Their purpose is to reflect life, and they do it in the home.

Place the mirror on a large wall in a small room, and that room is doubled in space, practically. It widens a narrow passage into a wide hallway, or may lengthen a vestibule into twice as long a reception hall.

REFLECTS FIRE'S GLOW

Perhaps the most effective spot to place a mirror is opposite the fireplace or opposite the front window. It is there in a large enough wall to accommodate it. Opposed to the fireplace, the mirror is particularly charming in winter, when the glow of the fire is reflected on the other side.

grew and grew and grew and by and by they began to be crowded. They were so crowded they could scarcely move.

"And when they became crowded, they were so uncomfortable, and the minute they became uncomfortable, they began to blame it on each other."

"Begorra, move over!" cried Pat to Mike. "I'm so crowded I can't move."

And he gave him a push with his shoulder.

"Pat's crowded and he's pushing," said Mike to Dennis. "You'll have to move over or I'll get smashed."

And to Pat's pushing he added a little pushing of his own.

"Begorra!" said Dennis to Larry. "It's the life that's being pushed out of me. If you don't move over, Larry, I'll be nothing but a lot of mush. Do be kind enough to move a bit."

"And to Pat's and Mike's pushing Dennis added a little pushing of his own."

"By that time poor Larry was at most flat. He had scarcely breath enough left to say to Barney, 'Please move over.' But just the same he added his own little bit of pushing to Pat's and Mike's and Dennis' pushing, and poor Barney was pushed against Jerry, the last brother, until Jerry couldn't stand it at all."

"He was right against the end of the little green house and with his five brothers all pushing against him as hard as ever they could, suddenly—poof! went the wall and out flew Jerry."

"Right after him came Barney and Dennis and Larry and Pat and Mike. 'And what do you suppose?'"

"They all landed right in the middle of a pot of boiling water."

"Ouch!" cried Barney. "Now see what you have done!"

"Ouch!" cried Larry to Barney. "Now just see what you've done!"

"Ouch!" cried Barney to Dennis. "Now see what you've done, Stupid!"

"And so it went on. Dennis blamed Mike and Mike blamed Pat. Which was as it should be, for Pat had started it all."

"Isn't it just people to blame their troubles on each other?"

"But they boiled and boiled, these six brothers did, and after while when dinner was served, little Johnny ate them up."

"I know what they were. Six green peas," said Nick.

Don't Forget To Baby Your Husband, Too

BY CYNTHIA GREY

I never have known a girl who "babied" her husband as Leota Woods did the first year she and Dick were married—or a wife who neglected her husband more after that first year.

The baby came along about that time, and Leota forgot that she had a husband, a home, and a group of friends in her absorption over that baby—the King, she called him.

Before the arrival of the King, Leota had always waited on Dick in every way.

She used to tell about it proudly. And I think Dick wouldn't have been so helpless if she hadn't taken such good care of him—and then suddenly left him to his own devices.

"Leota doesn't know I'm alive any more," Dick said to me one evening when we had gone there to pay a call.

"Leota and I haven't had breakfast together three times in the last three months," Dick said. "She's always taking care of the baby. And at night she's so tired that she falls asleep in her chair."

"Leota started to flare up. 'Leota have a hand or two of bridge now?'" I suggested, hoping to keep the peace.

We had played two hands when Leota put her finger-tip to her lips. From upstairs could be heard a faint wail.

"Play this hand without me, will you?" Leota asked, and ran up the stairs. We stayed an hour longer but she didn't come down. I truly think she had forgotten our existence.

But more than that, she has forgotten Dick's existence almost. Any man who is out with his cronies three nights a week is not happy in his home.

Leota's devotion to her baby is a beautiful thing, but she has let it shove her husband out of her life. Years from now she will probably be one of the women who call themselves neglected wives. I wonder then if she'll realize that she, herself, sent her husband away from her.

creating the illusion of another fire.

Set facing the windows, especially in summer, the mirror brings the outdoors into the home. The colors of the trees and flowers come inside and add fresh life to the home.

A mirror is also pleasant above the mantel of the fireplace. The wall there seems to be made especially for that purpose, and at times a mirror looks better than a painting or tapestry in that position.

BRIGHTENS DULL SPOT

The rather dull spot between windows is another place for a long narrow mirror with perhaps a small wall-table and a vase of flowers in front of it. That spot no place for a picture, because the light from the windows at either side blinds one to an effective view of such a hanging there. But the mirror helps dispel the light of the entire room so that even this "blind" spot is lightened.

The most popular mirror of today is the long narrow kind. In fact, it has been popular ever since mirrors came into use in the sixteenth century. Mirrored doors of Louis XV in France, in the first quarter of the eighteenth century, and they are still most effective in enlarging and glorifying the home.

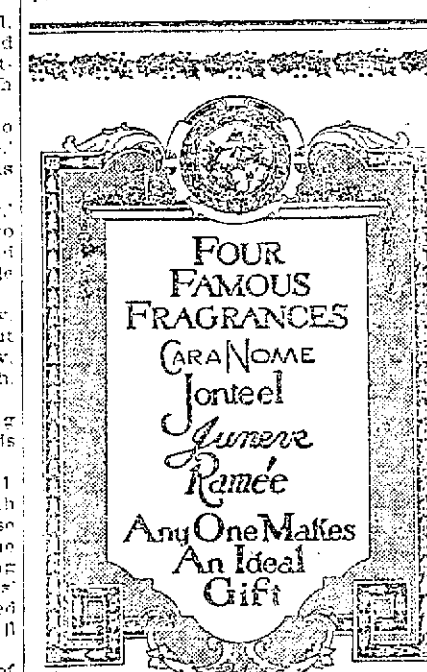

Try a mirror in all sorts of ways, and some of the most pleasant surprises in home beautifying will result.

Velvets Are Smart At All Times Of Day

Velvet assumes new importance in the evening wear of this new season. Never before has there appeared such a profusion of gorgeous gowns and wraps in this most flattering of winter materials. The French designers

Operation Not Successful

"16 years ago I was operated for appendicitis and later operated again for gall stones. Neither did me any good and I suffered all kinds of torture since. Five years ago I took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and have felt no symptoms or pain since. All stomach sufferers should take it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

have employed velvet for every hour of the day—velveteen for the street, chiffon velvet for the formal ensemble of afternoon and artificial velvet and the softest of silk velvets for evening. Artificial velvet deserves a whole page to itself. Do not be misled by the word "artificial" for this fabric, which is a combination of wool and silk, has a luster and sheen entirely new and extremely smart. It is even more costly to produce than the finest of all-silk velvets, and is used by the leading dressmakers of Paris as well as by our own exclusive couturieres.

As yet no one shade seems to predominate in the evening mode. Black and white are conspicuous. Shades of pink shading into fuchsia, many and varied shades of mauve, reds of an amazing range from the most yellow of "Chinese reds" to the most purple of "mauveas" are shown. Occasionally the cold purplish blue which the French call "perle" appears, while the woman who affects the subtle colorings chooses one of the beige or brown tones made popular by some of the most followed of French dress-makers.

NEW MINISTER WILL PROVE RED'S GUILT
Berlin — Documentary evidence proving Moscow's responsibility for the recent Communist revolt at Kiev will be presented to the league of nations, according to an announcement by the new Estonian foreign minister, M. Pusta, as outlined in a special dispatch received here.
The foreign minister, according to the message, charges that the Soviet government supplied the insurgents with arms and ammunition and placed ten million Estonian marks at their disposal.
The Communist uprising in Revel on Dec. 1 was suppressed by the Estonian government after sharp fighting in which about 50 persons were killed. A number of the leaders subsequently were executed.

BRITISH PRESS LAUDS AIR PIONEERS' SUCCESS
By Associated Press
London — The coming of age of the airplane Wednesday the twenty-first anniversary of Orville Wright's first flight in a power-driven, heavier-than-air machine at Kittyhawk, N. THINKS BUS DRIVER COP, HURT IN 30-FOOT JUMP
By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Miss Harriet Wallace, a saleswoman, is in a serious condition at a local hospital, the result of jumping from an apartment window to the ground, 30 feet below. She is suffering from internal injuries, a fractured hip and numerous bruises.
Miss Wallace with four others had spent the greater part of the night at the apartment. Early Wednesday morning an argument started which became so noisy that a bus driver, living in the apartment below, came to the door to ask they be more quiet.
Miss Wallace mistook the man for a police officer and jumped from the window.

REMLEY IS HEAD OF COMMITTEE TO DRAFT NEW LAWS

Traffic Problem Also Is Taken in Hand at State Meeting at Wausau

A. C. Remley, president of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, was appointed at a meeting Monday at Wausau as chairman of a statewide committee to work out a constructive program of legislation to be submitted to the legislature at its next session. He is to select four others to assist him in this work.

Mr. Remley was at Wausau with Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber, and R. G. Wort, traffic expert, attending a meeting of presidents, secretaries and traffic men of various chambers of commerce of the state. The gathering was called by Mr. Remley and Mr. Corbett in the hope that the commercial interests of the state could unite on problems such as legislation, freight rates and promotion of the general welfare of the state. There were about 50 men present, including eight presidents, twenty secretaries and ten traffic men. Thirty-four chambers had voiced their approval of the movement.

STUDY FREIGHT INCREASE

Traffic men attending were formed into a committee to devise ways to fight increases in freight rates proposed by the railroads. It was declared by A. E. Solie of Wausau that statewide action is not feasible since the state is divided into zones each having a different rate. A plan therefore is being worked out to unite traffic men in each district to handle their own problem, and then merge the groups to draft a general policy.

Mr. Remley's committee is to confer with other statewide organizations as well as chambers of commerce to learn what legislation or corrective lawmaking is needed for the welfare of the state. This question will be taken up with such bodies as Wisconsin Manufacturers association, Greater Wisconsin association, dry goods, hardware and other retail associations and groups whose membership usually is embodied in the chamber of commerce rolls.

SEVERAL CITY TALKS

Speakers at the meeting were: Phil A. Gray, Milwaukee; Col. William J. Anderson, Madison; A. E. Solie, Wausau; Carl Johnson, Madison, president of Wisconsin Manufacturers association; Thomas Campion, secretary of Greater Wisconsin association; Mr. Remley, Mr. Corbett and others.

Mr. Anderson made suggestions for the legislative program. He said matters usually considered of interest only to state officials are of vital local concern as well because of their effect. He cited the home rule amendment as one, saying its scope and effect are unlimited. Every city ought to study this matter deeply, he said, and have representatives at Madison when the bill is up for consideration. He also referred to the bank taxation fight. This is left almost entirely in state hands, he said, whereas it is a local matter because anything that affects banks adversely affects the community too. He said a constructive program submitted by such a representative group as this one was sure to merit better consideration than that of a state organization representing only one line of business or one group.

Help of Wisconsin Manufacturers association was promised by Mr. Johnson, and to encourage George F. Kuhl, offered to sound its legislative bulletin regularly during the session to any chamber of commerce member who wants it. This will keep him in touch with the lawmaking activity.

Ten Easy Ways of Making the New Fabric Flowers.

Probably when the French dressmaker fastened together her first fabric flower and tucked it to a petite party frock, she wasn't thinking economy.

But fabric flowers certainly serve a thrifty as well as smart purpose. Whether it's a square, an oblong or straight seam, you can work it into one or another of the beautiful flowers that are now so much in vogue as trimming.

These decorations are easy to make. Directions for the double rose, daisy, twisted rose, chrysanthemum, dandelion, and rosebud are given in the Sewing Booklet which this Bureau has for free distribution.
